The President's Brain
Did She Burn Herself?
Beware the Maelstrom
What Kills Bolshevism
Current Events

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, urged by his friends and doctor to take a vacation, says he doesn't need it. He thinks work will do him more good than doing nothing.

A vacation is good, because it stirs up a new part of the brain and lets the hard working, tired part rest. The job of President, one of the most difficult and exacting in the world, has one good feature. It supplies infinite variety.

It's taxes one day, flying machines the next, European debt, paying the national debt, writing nice notes to European rulers on their birthdays, seeing all the queer people that visit the White House, etc. By the end of the week the President probably has used all parts of his brain, from the part just above his eyebrows to the part around by the back of his neck. It's everlastingly using just one small brain section that wears you out. That's why students live long.

THE WIFE of the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, of Columbus, Ohio, is found burned to cinders in the furnace of their suburban home. The coroner accepts the explanation that the lady crawled into the furnace, while the fire was blazing, and shut the door after her. That reminds you of the man accused of killing and stealing sheep who said, "I will kill any sheep that bites me."

IT IS NOT absolutely impossible that a woman demented, and indifferent to pain, should crawl through the door of a furnace into a blazing fire and shut the door after her, but it seems improbable. The Rev. Mr. Sheatsley says he was attracted to the furnace by the smell of burning flesh, but it was too late.

IN A RUSSIAN PRISON, a Nihilist, fearing that torture might force him to betray his comrades, holding to the bars of a window high up in his cell, managed to pull up his body above the flame of a small oil lamp, and hung on while he burned himself to death. It takes unusual determination to do that. The case of the Rev. Mr. Sheatsley's wife should be carefully investigated.

THE STOCK MARKET continues boiling, 72 stocks going to new high prices yesterday, including 18 railroads and 35 industrials. More than a million shares were sold in the first two hours of trading.

Be careful how you risk your fate on the edge of that maelstrom.

Be careful, also, how you sell anything short. There is a great deal of money in this country, and the country contains many fools. If the public ever starts gambling on a big scale, the unfortunate "shorts" will be twisted all out of shape.

BOLSHEVISM can't grow in the United States for many reasons. The automobile is one reason. The fact that there is plenty of land and opportunity for those that have intelligence and willingness to work, is another reason.

The fact that the population is so mixed is another reason. If any racial element started Bolshevism or anything out of the way, the other element would take prompt action.

You must have a homogeneous population to make any great revolutionary movement a success. And you won't have such a population here for a long time.

MUSSOLINI complains, justly, that our immigration laws are a hardship for Italy. They are an infinitely greater hardship for the United States. The skillful workers that Italy would send to us, and that we stupidly refuse to admit, represent the very wealth that this nation needs.

Everybody knows the service that Italian immigration has rendered the United States, in the building of railroads, in agriculture and in other directions. The Italians that we are now keeping out, and other good Europeans of the right kind, would mean in a few years th[illegible] of millions added to the [illegible] of the United States an[illegible]

STRICKEN IN ARMAGH PALACE

Ireland's Primate Succumbs at the Age of 84, After a General Breakdown

Belfast, Nov. 19.—Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, is dead. The Primate died at his residence, "Ara Coeli," in Armagh, at 6 o'clock this morning.

There had been no previous intimation of the Cardinal's illness and the news of his demise caused a great shock throughout Ireland. He was eighty-four years old.

Cardinal Logue expressed satisfaction upon the conclusion of the Anglo-Irish treaty in 1921, declaring he thought the settlement terms just. He said at that time, and repeated the sentiment on other occasions:

"I should like to see unity and no division of the country, so that all could pull together for the good of Ireland. I should like to see the people of Ireland living in peace and charity with each other."

In the lenten statement which he himself wrote last year, he condemned the "plague of destruction," pillage and rapine" with which his native land was torn.

Never before in the world's history, he said, had such an outburst of destruction sprung from such "thin, intangible, unsubstantial vapor as the difference between some unequivocal words in the oath of the king."

The Cardinal was born in Donegal in 1840. He was consecrated Bishop of Raphoe, in 1890 and coadjutor to the Primate eight years later. He became Archbishop of Armagh in 1888, and was raised to cardinal in 1893.

Cardinal Logue's successor as Archbishop of Armagh will be Archbishop Patrick O'Donnell, who succeeded the late prelate in the Raphoe Bishopric and was appointed his coadjutor in 1922.

Archbishop O'Donnell took an active part in the Irish Nationalist movement, being treasurer of the now defunct Irish League. He was a member of the Irish convention which met in 1917 and 1918 under the chairmanship of Sir Horace Plunkett.

Peace for Ireland Always First With Cardinal Logue

Cardinal Logue, in the latter years of his life, strove ceaselessly to bring an end to the outrages which characterized the hostility between the Sinn Fein followers and the British troops in Ireland. He issued several pastorals, denouncing

SKATING? SURE! PUBLIC GARDEN

FIRST SKATER

The snappy weather brought out the first skater of the season today, and as usual the Public Garden was the scene of Boston's first skating. George Smith of No. 22 Orange court, Roxbury, found the ice perfect and cut circles and figures before a crowd of envious spectators. Smith found the ice so good he stayed for hours and many others who saw him circling the pond went home for their skates. The air had just the right nip in it to make outdoor exercise comfortable, but was not too cold for pleasure.

IRISH DEPUTY'S WIFE IS SLAIN NEAR DUBLIN

Dublin, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Darrell Figgis, wife of Deputy Figgis, member of the Dail Eireann, died in a hospital in Dublin today from a gunshot wound in the head received last night as she was being driven in a taxicab along the mountain road near Rathfarnham, outside Dublin.

Mrs. Giggis was prominent in the White Cross movement for the relief of Irish political prisoners during the Anglo-Irish troubles.

AMERICAN CITIZEN KILLED IN MEXICO

Washington, Nov. 19.—Paul Meer, an American citizen in the employ of the Penoles Mining Company, was shot and killed on the night of November 16 at Guanacevi, State of Durango, Mexico. American Consul McEnolly, reporting the killing today, said the slayer had not been captured.

'EXILES' BEGIN TREKKING TO PROVIDENCE

Providence, Nov. 19.—The five month's exile of the Republican State Senators who betook themselves to Rutland, as a result of the feud which halted the progress of legislation ended today.

Leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties have at last reached an agreement on the appropriations bill, which was one of the problems which tied up the State governmental machinery virtually all year.

The four leaders who revised and reframed the appropriations bill were Senator John J. Barry, Central Falls, Democrat; Senator Harry Sanderson, Johnston, Republican; Representative W. E. Reddy, West Warwick, Democrat and Representative F. S. Peck, Barrington, Republican.

There are twenty-two exiled Senators in Rutland and they were notified by telephone today that an agreement had been reached. They are packing their bags preparatory to starting for Providence for the re-convention of the Senate tomorrow afternoon.

The appropriations bill in its revised form asks for $1,564,000

TOY SHIP SAFE AFTER ENGINE BREAKDOWN

The Shipping Board steamship West Inskip, New England's Santa Claus ship, thought to have foundered, today reported herself safe 160 miles southeast of Boston and proceeding to this port at normal speed.

The steamer, carrying thirty-five officers and men, sent out an S. O. S. early today, which was interrupted, and coastguard cutters and other vessels rushed to her aid in the belief she was sinking.

Rogers & Webb of State street, local agents, received word that she had effected engine repairs at sea and would reach Boston early tomorrow morning.

The freighter is five years old, an oil burner, built on the Pacific Coast and is from Antwerp with a cargo of German and Dutch toys. Importers have been impatient over the delay in the vessel's arrival.

CATCH ONE CALL.

The boat reported her position to the wireless station at Chatham at noon Monday. At that time she was about 350 miles southwest of Boston lightship, and evidently making slow progress because of the storm.

Nothing more was heard from her until 12:18 today, when the Charlestown Navy Yard and the Radio Corporation of America's station at Chatham picked up a call for help.

"S. O. S. KIZT" was the message received. KIZT are the call letters of the West Inskip and the Navy Yard at once sent out orders to clear the air of all messages and broadcasts.

Operators at both stations worked frantically in an attempt to tune in

A1 SHEIK GRANTED LENIENCY

Suspended Sentence for Man Who Wed Two, Wrote "Thousand Kisses"

Framingham, Nov. 19.—The way of the super-sheik is not so hard.

Joseph Fournier, who craved "a thousand kisses a minute" from the girl he married without giving a thought to Wife No. 1 and two children in Shrewsbury, was given a suspended sentence in the House of Correction by Judge Blodgett here today, for bigamy.

Fournier, a musician in the Worcester Brigade Band, had a wife and two children in Shrewsbury when he married Iona Mitchell, seventeen-year-old Holliston beauty last June.

OFFERS NO TESTIMONY.

The court expressed the belief that Iona knew Fournier was married when she was wedded to him.

The musician was arrested last week on a charge of bigamy and when he appeared in court the case was continued until today. James J. Hurley of Worcester, counsel for Fournier, rested the defence case without testimony.

In imposing sentence, Judge Blodgett explained that the usual punishment for such offences was five years in prison, but that the previous good record of Fournier and the plea for leniency made by Wife No. 1, had induced him to suspend a two-year sentence.

SOUGHT KISS RECORD.

In letters to wife No. 2, Fournier had asserted that "hearing from a nice little darling like you" made him feel "like kissing you a thousand times a second."

AMERICAN BROUGHT FROM WRANGELL BY SOVIET

Moscow, Nov. 19 (A.P.)—The Soviet expedition which recently hoisted the Russian flag on Wrangell Island returned to Russia today on the armed transport Red October. On board was Charles Wells, American member of the Stefansson party, who was taken off the island with thirteen Eskimos. According to Soviet officials Wells made a written statement in the presence of a British consul stating he left Wrangell Island of his own accord. When removed from the island Wells had in his possession American and British flags.

This Thief Has Won First Prize for Meanness

Norfolk, Vt., Nov. 19 (I.N.S.)—According to the matron of the Turney Home for Orphan Boys, the man that gave son a penny for going to bed and then took it while the child slept, was a benevolent and charitable person compared with the thief that invaded the orphanage.

Sixteen pairs of trousers that the laundry had hung on the clothesline overnight were taken by the thief, and sixteen little boys wept as they gazed out on a cold and snowy world today.

ROLPHS GREET INVALID SON IN HOSPITAL

With tear-filled eyes, a middle-aged man and woman fervently grasped the hands of a wan and haggard youth, who lay in a cot at City Hospital today.

The couple were Mayor and Mrs. James M. Rolph of San Francisco and the patient was their son, James M. Rolph, Jr., who, suffering with typhoid fever, was removed from the Dollar liner, President Van Buren, when she arrived in Boston last night.

The Mayor and his wife had double cause for joy, in that they were reunited with their son after many months, and his condition was much improved, according to Dr. Edmund C. Wilson, assistant superintendent of the hospital.

Joining them in their thanksgiving were Mayor and Mrs. James M. Curley of Boston, who met the Van Buren when it came in and carried the sick youth to the hospital.

MADE FAST TRIP.

Mayor and Mrs. Rolph arrived in this city this forenoon on the Twentieth Century Limited, after a dash across country. Notified of their son's illness by wireless, they chartered a special train and caught up with a transcontinental limited which had left San Francisco some hours before.

The boy was making a world tour on the President Van Buren as a cadet when he was stricken with typhoid fever after leaving Cairo, together with five other members of the crew.

When the Van Buren arrived Mayor and Mrs. Curley were on hand and personally directed and expedited the transfer of young Rolph to the City Hospital.

SENT BULLETINS.

Standish Willcox, Mayor Curley's social secretary, flashed bulletins to the anxious parents on their journey, and going to Worcester, boarded their train at that point and accompanied them to Boston.

At the Trinity Place Station Mayor and Mrs. Curley were waiting, and in the Mayor's car the party were whirled to the hospital.

There was an affecting meeting between the reunited members of the Rolph family, although the son was still weak.

Dr. Wilson informed the anxious parents that their son's malady had

BABY AND TWO MEN IN MAINE MYSTERY

Searchers Digging in Fields of Widow Cote's Place, on New Tip to Police

Portland, Me., Nov. 19.—Officials investigating the murder of Alphonse Cote, whose body was found buried on the farm of his wife at Gorham, believe that he was one of four victims buried there.

They are investigating reports that the property was actually a "murder farm."

It is now believed that not only was Cote murdered and buried on the farm, but that other victims included William C. Sanborn, first husband of Mrs. Cote, as well as a new-born baby and a peddler.

WANT BOY ARRESTED.

A petition is being circulated in Gorham today asking that Ralph Sanborn, son of Mrs. Cote, be put under restraint as dangerous.

He is at present at liberty in $5,000 bail as a material witness to the death of his stepfather and as possible accessory with Charles H. Fielding, who, the police say, admitted that he murdered Cote after Mrs. Cote had nagged him into doing so.

NEIGHBORS SUSPICIOUS.

Neighbors who have long been suspicious of the Sanborn farm and who have watched closely the various mysterious activities that went on there, are responsible for the charge that three bodies are still buried on the property.

Deputy Sheriff Eugene E. Norton of North Gorham, heading the investigators, went to the farm as soon as he learned of the new reports and promptly set a gang of men to work digging up every foot of the land.

When the first informant came forward with reports that a new-born baby and a peddler had been buried on the farm, officials were skeptical. However, a check-up of the neighborhood resulted in the finding of a score or more of neighbors who corroborated the report.

NEVER SEEN AGAIN.

The sources of information told the authorities that a peddler with his pack on his back had gone to the farm and had never been seen again. The report of the buried baby is more vague.

INVESTIGATORS REVEAL TAX DODGING

Washington, Nov. 19.—After reviewing a part of the evidence compiled by the investigators, the special Senate committee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau today decided to go forward with the investigation. At today's session the committee went over evidence relating to taxes paid by corporations and individuals with incomes over $100,000. The chairman said the cases examined showed that tax payments had been reduced by borrowing money and by the formation of corporations to divide incomes.

FIELDING HYPNOTIZED IN MAINE MURDER, WIFE DECLARES

PUTS ALL BLAME ON MRS. COTE

slaying of Alphonse Cote, declares in her first statement since the arrest of her husband that Mrs. Cote held a strange power over Fielding.

"She forced my husband to do her bidding," sobbed the heart-broken wife today.

The Portland woman, who was a guest with her husband at the Cote farm at Gorham when Cote was shot down in the woods by Fielding and his body buried in a field by Fielding and a stepson of the slain man, knew nothing of the murder until her husband and Mrs. Cote were arrested eight days later.

"I caught Mrs. Cote and my husband engaged in earnest conversations in the sitting room on many occasions during our week's stay there," said Mrs. Fielding.

"Whenever I arrived on the scene they would stop their talk and separate. I asked my husband what they were talking about. He would reply, jokingly, 'Oh, nothing important.'

TELLS OF FATAL DAY.

"Mrs. Cote called her husband a brute and said he was cruel to her and her children, whom he called vile names. She told me at breakfast on Nov. 7, the day Mr. Cote disappeared, while she claimed they were out hunting a deer, that Cote was going to Canada to get a job. She declared he said he was going to pocket all the money and that she would not get any of it, meaning the legacy.

"I was the last up on the day of the shooting. I did not come down for breakfast until about 7:30 or 8 o'clock. Not seeing my husband, I said, 'Where's Charles?' Mrs. Cote said 'Ralph saw a deer and he and Cote and Charles are hunting it.' It was later in that same conversation that she mentioned that her husband planned a trip to Canada.

ORDERED OFF FARM.

"In July, while I was on a vacation with my husband's father, my husband said that he and Cote had a quarrel over Mrs. Cote and that Cote ordered him off the farm.

"I noticed when we arrived for our vacation on November 1, that Cote acted mad as soon as we struck the door yard. He continued to be ugly and grouchy at the table, showing that he did not want us there. My husband told me that Cote threatened to have him arrested when they quarreled in July.

"I told my husband to be careful, as I thought Cote might turn on him, but Charles laughed it off and said Cote would not be able to do anything to him.

"I found my husband and Mrs. Cote talking over something very seriously on Friday evening, the day Cote disappeared. My husband was on the couch and Mrs. Cote was sitting in a chair near him.

"After they were arrested Mrs. Cote sent word to me by County Attorney Ingalls that she was anxious to look out for me and my child, as she had plenty of money. I sent back word that I wanted nothing more to do with her.

County Attorney Ingalls had one brief conference with the Massachusetts witness and resumed the interview in his law office early today.

Public sentiment throughout the county is positive and bitter concerning the fate of the first husband. Among the witnesses interviewed by the officials was Fred Blake, a neighbor of the Cote's, who claimed that Mrs. Cote told him two stories concerning the disappearance of Cote on the morning of the tragedy.

"I was hanging wall paper in the Cote home," said Blake. "I asked Mrs. Cote if they had seen any deer in the neighborhood. She said her husband was out on the ridge at that very moment hunting a deer with her son Ralph and Charles Bennett. She said that she and her husband had quarrelled all the night before because of the presence of Fielding and his wife in their home and then, in the next breath, said that her husband had gone away to Canada to get a job, and that he was going to keep all the money."

Attorney Max L. Pinansky, counsel for Fielding, announced that he had important evidence concerning the fate of the first husband of Mrs. Cote and was convinced that a master mind plotted against both husbands.

Ireland Mourns

CARDINAL LOGUE.

the excesses on both sides which brought Ireland to the verge of civil war.

While the enmity between the factions was most intense, his own carriage was twice held up and searched. After the war, he urged freedom for Ireland and declared "the whole peace business is a game of grab."

His Lenten pastoral to the archdiocese of Armagh last March, in which he denounced the "daring dress and the dancing mania of modern times," received wide publicity in this country and was commented upon everywhere.

"The dress, or rather, the want of dress, of the woman of the present day is a crying scandal," he wrote. "There seems to be a rivalry among them as to how little dress they can wear without incurring universal reprobation. Another abuse is dancing, especially all-night dances."

Cardinal Logue was known as the Venerable Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland, "the successor of St. Patrick." When he was consecrated a Bishop, in 1879, he labored among the people of Donegal, who were then impoverished by crop failures, and for their relief he collected a fund of $150,000. In 1893 Pope Leo XIII made him a Cardinal, a dignity never before attained by even the greatest of the 114 Primates, back to the days of St. Patrick.

Four years ago he declared, while speaking at Maynooth College, that he had received a warning of his approaching death. He said:

"I am grateful, for it gives me time to prepare."

Cardinal Logue was known as the "Grand Old Man" of the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland. He had a tiny frame but great courage, of which he frequently had need during the period of strife in Ireland.

The cardinal was the most approachable of men. He invariably answered in person any telephone inquiry received while in Armagh. He always spent his annual holiday at Carlingford, a pretty seaside resort in County Louth, where he had a private jetty from which he dived every morning.

TAKES BEATING, BUT BLOCKS ROBBERS

Allston Man Puts Up Fight in Store, Despite Threats Backed by Revolver

Defying three robbers, Andrew Brown saved the cash in the till of his periodical store at No. 92 Franklin street, Allston, but was knocked to the floor by one of the gunmen before the trio fled in a waiting automobile.

Brown thought he had a customer when he turned, but found himself looking into the bore of a revolver. The pals of the hold-up man entered the store at the same time.

Answering the demand of "Hands up!" with the retort, "Nothing doing!" Brown grappled with one of the strangers who went behind the counter to force the storekeeper into submission.

Evidently fearing capture, the robbers gave up the fight, but the first gunman clubbed Brown on the head as he left.

Brown suffered a scalp wound. He was unable to recover quickly enough to get the registration number of the automobile.

OLD NORTH ENDERS WILL MEET AGAIN

A reunion of all the old-time North Enders and members of St. Stephens Church, North End, in Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, will be held Friday evening from 8 o'clock to midnight.

The program will consist of a large whist party and dancing. Henry Fitzgerald is chairman of the committee on arrangements. The dance committee include James H. Walker, Peter Carlen and James Kelly.

The refreshment and whist committee is composed of Mrs. Thomas McFarlane, Mrs. James Walker, Lillian Bowman, Margaret Kyle, Mrs. Alice Langton and Agnes Connelly.

QUIT WASTING TIMBER, ADVICE OF COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge today asked for a specific program of timber-saving, in opening the National Conference on Utilization of Forest Products.

The nation faces timber exhaustion, the President warned, and the situation must be met, he insisted, by diminishing waste and increasing the supply.

The resources of the nation are a trust, Mr. Coolidge declared, subject to use by the present generation, administered free of monopolies and from those "who will unwisely permit them to be dissipated," but there must be restoration, as well as use.

SOUTH END ACCLAIMS DOG A HERO

MRS. SADIE BERMAN AND "SPUDDY"

with the steamer again, but without result for seventeen minutes.

Then they heard:

"S. O. S. KI——"

That was all. Communication was broken at this point.

While all radio stations along the coast stood by, the coastguard cutter Tampa was ordered out and under forced draft headed for the approximate position of the West Inskip as worked out by Navy navigators from the position she reported Monday.

At 5:30 a. m. the Tampa was on the approximate position of the freighter, but could obtain no sight of her in the darkness.

The Shipping Board freighter Stanley, European ports to New York, which had been in communication with the West Inskip up to the time of the interrupted S. O. S., also was in the vicinity, as was the Shipping Board tanker Astral from British ports to New York.

HAD ENGINE TROUBLE.

For more than eight hours the West Inskip was among the missing, and then at 8:30 a. m. her wireless crashed through the air again with the announcement that she was proceeding to Boston and required no assistance. The vessel reported that the message previously sent out was due to engine trouble on board, which had been repaired.

The West Inskip is of 5,555 gross and 30,457 net tons, and carries a crew of approximately thirty-five officers and men. So far as known there were no passengers aboard.

PICK UP FISHERMEN.

The coast guard cutter Tampa, which was rushed to the aid of the West Inskip, later wirelessed that the steam trawler Ocean had taken two men from a small disabled motorboat thirteen miles northeast of Nantucket Lightship.

The wireless was brief and gave no further information. It was at first thought the rescued might have been the two Cohasset men missing since Sunday.

This belief was dissipated when the Ocean wirelessed her owners, the Bay State Fishing Company, that the motorboat, a fisherman, was owned by Manuel Avilla of North street, New Bedford. It is assumed that Avilla is one of the two men rescued.

ATTEMPT TO KILL SIRDAR OF THE EGYPTIAN ARMY

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—An attempt to assassinate Major-General Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army, by means of a bomb followed with a fusilade from revolvers outside the Ministry of War, resulted today in the serious wounding of the sirdar. His aide-de-camp, P. K. Campbell; his chauffeur and a policeman also were wounded. The three or four men involved in the attack escaped. The bomb failed to explode. The sirdar was wounded in the stomach, a hand and a foot.

POLICE HUNTING FAKE TRAFFIC OFFICER

State troopers, Metropolitan and Boston police are searching for a man who, posing as a motorcycle policeman, held up and shot Alcide Charron of the Biltmore Hotel, Back Bay, on the Mystic Valley Boulevard.

Charron, who is in the City Hospital with a bullet wound in his foot, told the police he was returning from Fitchburg when he heard a motorcycle drive up alongside of him. The driver, he said, wore a khaki uniform and a badge and with a drawn revolver ordered him to stop, saying he had been speeding.

The "officer" demanded money, Charron said, and was offered $7, which was all the autoist had. He refused this and demanded more, according to Charron. Then in an attempt to wrest the gun from the motorcycle man, it was discharged, the bullet lodging in Charron's foot.

Charron made his way to the hospital and notified the police.

Metropolitan police say no mounted patrolmen have been on the boulevard for the past three days and that for some time previous they have been uniformed in gray, rather than khaki, which is the Summer uniform.

PARENTS DIE, TRYING TO SAVE CHILDREN

Toledo, O., Nov. 19.—A father, a mother and their three-months-old daughter were burned to death today when fire destroyed their home at Perrysburg. They were Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson. The baby's name was Betty Don. A son, a twin of the baby girl, was snatched from its father's arms and rushed to safety by Mrs. E. McMillen, a neighbor. Another child, Kathleen, aged three, was rescued by William Utah, fireman, after she had crawled part way to the front door.

Finds $10,000 in Stock and Gets $1 Reward

Thomas Young, a postoffice clerk, while walking through a five and ten-cent store on Washington street today, picked up an envelope containing 10,000 shares of oil stock.

He dashed to the postoffice and gave the envelope to a superior.

The owner, an attorney, was notified, and claimed the stock. On leaving the postoffice he passed the astonished clerk $1 (100 cents).

"Virtue is its own reward, and it's well it is for it gets no other," remarked Young sotto voice.

DOG HERO OF FIRE IN THE SOUTH END

'Spuddy's' Barking Arouses Master as Home Burns; Is Rescued by Ladderman

"Spuddy" isn't much of a dog, as dogs go, but in the South End, today, "Spuddy" is being acclaimed a hero.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berman, who own "Spuddy," and who live on the second floor of an apartment house at No. 14 Davis street owe their lives to the dog.

While the members of the family were sound asleep, the dog discovered a fire raging in the third floor of the building. He barked so frantically, and clawed so vigorously on the door of the apartment, that the Bermans were finally aroused and made their way to safety.

RESCUED BY LADDER CREW.

"Spuddy," the dog who saved the family from death, however was forgotten in the excitement and was left behind in the burning building. He didn't whimper or bark when the danger to his master was passed, but was awaiting his fate without a whimper when the crew of Ladder 17 hoisted a ladder and rescued him.

The fire started in the apartment of Catherine Powers, on the third floor of the apartment house and spread rapidly.

"Spuddy," the dog, had been out playing until late and when he finally slipped into the apartment house, he found himself locked out for the night.

BARKS AND SCRATCHES.

There was a window open, leading onto a fire escape, and while "Spuddy" was exploring the mysterious regions along the ladders and iron runways someone closed the window and he was locked out in the cold.

"Spuddy" was used to a rough life, such as dogs in the South End generally endure, and he philosophically curled up in a window corner and tried to sleep.

He was wideawake, however, when the fire, raging in the floor above, broke through one of the windows, and for five minutes he barked and clawed at the window until the sleepers inside heard him and discovered their predicament.

SUB-TREASURY SAVED AS HISTORIC LANDMARK

New York, Nov. 19.—The United States sub-treasury building at Nassau and Wall streets, one of the nation's important historical structures, will be preserved as a historical object and will not be converted into headquarters of prohibition and narcotic law enforcement officials. R. Q. Merrick, divisional prohibition chief, also announced that he had received orders from the Treasury Department at Washington cancelling previous instructions to move to the Wall street building.

The sub-treasury, as it is known to millions of sightseers from all part sof the world, was erected in 1812 as a customs house and remodelled for use as a treasury building in 1862. It stands on the site of the structure in which the Continental Congress met in 1785.

VATICAN MAKES PLANS FOR BASILICA OPENINGS

Rome, Nov. 19. Plans are being drawn up for the ceremonies which will open the holy doors of the Basilicas, other than St. Peter's, formally ushering in Holy Year. It is understood those who will officiate at the opening of the hold doors of St. John Lateran, St. Paul's and Santa Maria Maggiore will be, respectively, Crdinal Pompilj, De Lai and Vannutelli.

already run 19 days, and unless unforseen complications set in, his recovery is only a question of time. He said the boy rested comfortably during the night and his temperature was not too high.

Young Rolph's first statement after arriving at the hospital, according to Dr. Wilson, was:

"Well, I'm glad to back on United States soil again."

The physician paid a tribute to the doctors on the President Van Buren, together with the officers. He said young Rolph could not have received better treatment if he had been in the hospital. Although the liner was caught in a storm for two dys.

Mayor and Mrs. Rolph will remain at the Copley-Plaza until their son's condition is sufficiently improved to permit his removal to San Francisco.

HOW TUMULTY BROKE WITH WILSON

Secretary's Own Story in White's Biography of World War President

In William Allen White's 600-page biography of Woodrow Wilson, issued by a New York publishing house, Joseph P. Tumulty tells how he fell from the favor of the World War President after the latter's second marriage.

Mr. White talked with President Wilson's secretary on this episode and prints an interview of twelve pages, in which, after telling about how he felt about the death of the first Mrs. Wilson, Tumulty is quoted as follows:

"Well, then he married Mrs. Galt. Now, remember that his first wife was my dearest friend and she said she loved me like one of her own boys, and I felt pretty bad, and I talked a good deal to Grayson about how I felt. One day, about a week after the wedding, I picked up the Philadelphia Public Ledger with a story of how Cary Grayson had made the match.

"After that some things began to happen. When we'd all go off on official trips, my name would not be on the list. It happened a lot of times, and one day we were going down to New York, and the Governor (Tumulty's term for the President), said:

"You're coming to New York with us?"

"And I said, 'I don't know.'"

"And when he went out, Charley Schwinn, his personal stenographer, said:

"'Now's your time to meet it and fight it out.'

"And I told him I would go. So I went and when they got off the train and into the carriage—Colonel House met them—they were all loaded into the carriages and poor Tumulty was left on the platform."

Nevertheless, according to the interview, Mr. Tumulty enjoyed friendly relations with the President up to and after his retirement from the White House.

TWO WEEKS' DELAY IN FIGHT FOR BATTLESHIP

Washington, Nov. 19 (I.N.S.).—While foggy weather off the Virginia capes continued to operate today as a natural injunction against the demolition of the U.S.S. Washington by naval gunners, attorneys conferred here over new moves to save the dreadnought. Injunctions asked by counsel for William B. Shearer, naval expert, have been refused by two Federal courts. There remains only the United States Supreme Court. Before his lawyers can get their facts before the Supreme Court, a decision must be had from the District Court of Appeals, which will not hear the case for several weeks.

JUMPS TO HIS DEATH FROM TOP OF BLOCK

New York, Nov. 19 (I.N.S.).—Benjamin Strager, sixty, a retired merchant, jumped from the roof of the six-story apartment house early today and was killed instantly. His wife and daughter said he had attempted suicide three times.

There is only one kind of wealth, HUMAN INTELLIGENCE. It has built up the United States. Why do we shut it out now?

DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON assures a gathering of scientists in New York that chemistry will do many wonderful things. Among others it will control the size and sex of animals, and it will enable human beings to control the sex of children before birth.

LET'S HOPE that the learned doctor is mistaken, and that the Power that really rules this little earth will retain the control of sex

Men are so conceited, women so good natured, that if sex control were possible, few girls would be born. The number wouldn't be sufficient to supply population or to civilize the men. With men outnumbering women three to one, the world would go back to barbarism.

PASTOR'S SERMON CLEW TO WIFE'S STRANGE DEATH IN FURNACE

DAUGHTER TELLS PROBERS OF MOTHER'S WORDS

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—"Your father will never preach a better sermon than he did last night." This remark may be the key to the weird mystery of the death of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, whose blackened bones were raked from the coals of a parsonage furnace by her husband, the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of the Lutheran Church in Bexley, a fashionable suburb.

Authorities have picked the quotation from a mass of testimony obtained in a day long examination of the Rev. Mr. Sheatsley and his four children, who range in age from ten to twenty.

They claim to see in these words spoken by Mrs. Sheatsley to her fourteen-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, only a few hours before her death, the possibility of a psychological solution of the furnace mystery.

PREACHED OF HEAVEN.

The subject of the Rev. Mr. Sheatsley's sermon Sunday night was "Paradise Regained." The theme of the sermon was heaven and the pastor gave it as his opinion that heaven is "the ancient paradise restored through Jesus, the second Adam."

Elizabeth was awakened by groans from her mother's bed room and rushed to her bedside.

"I am in no pain," the mother said. "Remember that your father will never preach a better sermon than he did last night. Now go back to bed like a good girl and don't worry."

Elizabeth told John P. King, county prosecutor, that she thought nothing more of the incident until her mother's death and that then "it struck me rather funny."

"If we can get behind Mrs. Sheatsley's words about the sermon we may have a solution or at least a clew," the prosecutor said. "If this is the case, then Mrs. Sheatsley may have been attracted to death by her husband's descri[illegible]n of heaven.

"If, on the other hand, she knew of some impending disaster, then she may have been seeking to reconcile herself to her fate."

No charges have been filed in connection with the death.

The prosecutor's theory that a [illegible] committed is corroborated by little more than his [illegible] by such means would have been inconceivable.

The furnace door is 14 by 14 inches, but the prosecutor insists that it would have been humanly impossible for a woman to have crawled head first into a bed of glowing coals and then to have pulled the door closed behind her.

He also scoffs at the theory that she could have entered feet first.

The pastor told a straightforward story of coming home after an absence of between three and four hours to find his children home from school, investigating a peculiar ordor ,which permeated the house, and looking for their mother.

Going into the basement, Sheatsley opened the furnace door and on close examination detected his wife's charred bones, and several pieces of her jewelry. He called in a neighbor, and together they sent for the coroner.

PASTOR'S THEORIES.

Calling County Prosecutor King to the parsonage today, the Rev. Mr. Sheatsley voiced his conviction that his wife had committed suicide. Sheatsley based his opinion, he said, on the following facts:

That furnace men had assured him it was possible for a person to crawl through the furnace door—approximately 14 inches square.

That a neighbor informed him that twice last Summer his wife had crawled through the door into her furnace to get some canaries. The neighbor's furnace had the same-sized door as that in the Sheatsley home.

That alienists asserted insane persons are insensible to pain, and could stand pain long enough to crawl into a hot furnace.

Siamese Princeling Just Hates Women

PRINCE PRADIT SUKHUM

This dusky gentleman—who looks like the twin of the pugilistic Pancho Villa—says he is so engrossed with his studies at Boston University that he has no time to philander with blondes and brunettes. Of course, he has nothing against American girls, he says, and so far as he is concerned they can smoke their little bobbed heads off clear down to their Adam's applesauce. Hold 'em, Yale. Long cheer for Harvard, boys!

Royal Student at Boston University, Busy With Profound Studies, Declines All Invitations to Join the Social Whirl

"I am a woman-hater!"

Prince Pradit Sukhum of Siam, hedged in by snappy, modern femininity at Boston University, makes that announcement with grim expression in self-defence of a barrage of invitations hurled at him to join the students' social whirl.

The Siamese aristocrat is a special student at the college, where he has attracted attention by his scholastic attainments and prowess on the football squad. His father is a minister in His Majesty's Cabinet at Bankok.

"I have no time to think of women," is the staple answer of the prince to all invations that involve escorting the fair co-ed to college functions.

"Oh, no—I haven't anything against them—just too busy! I like the American girls all right; think they ought to smoke if they wish and do everything a man does.

"You may call me a woman-hater. I have nothing to say either for or against them. They don't especially interest me."

Kunjara is enroute to Harvard.

DOING A FAVOR, SAYS DISCHARGED POLICEMAN

Joseph Grimes, formerly a patrolman connected with the City Point station, who was discharged for stealing wood ,was granted a public hearing by Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson today.

Roy Clifford, who was with Grimes when the pair were caught in a building in South Boston by Sergeant Dennis Redmond, and who was also discharged from the department, accepted his dismissal.

Testifying in his own behalf today, Grimes said he saw Patrolman Clifford in a building being torn down at Marine road and I street early in the morning. He said Clifford told him he had permission to take wood and asked Grimes to help him load it. Grimes said he had no reason to suspect the policeman was stealing.

"ANXIOUS INVESTOR" SENT TO PSYCHOPATHIC

To an attendant he confided he wished the advice of the Governor concerning the investment of $2,000,000 in railroad stocks.

The attendant recognized the visitor as a man who called two years ago to demand official action because of the poor quality of prevailing liquor. State Detective Frank Hale soon escorted the would-be investor to police headquarters, from where he was sent to the Psychopathic Hospital.

The New England Trust Company, as executor of the will of Robert J. Edwards, retired manufacturer, filed a bond of $3,000,000 with the registry of Probate today. Edwards died on ctober 18. The heirs are Hannah M. and Grace Edwards, sisters. Hugh D. Mackenzie, H. Montague Allen and Hartland McDougal filed bond of $1,500,000 as executors of the will of Bryce J. Allan late of No. 265 Beacon street, who died on August 28.

RUM GANG GETS 'INVITATION' TO COURT

Gloucester Chief Is Polite, but Adds That He'll Get Them, Anyway

Gloucester, Nov. 19.—An invitation has been formally extended to several alleged local bootleggers to come to court on charges of violating the liquor laws, and save the police the trouble of going after them.

Behind the courtesy of the invitation is the threat of City Marshal John E. Parker that he will "get" the rum dealers anyway, but he'd rather save the time and expense going after them.

Parker told the law-breakers he had the goods on them and now he's sitting back hopeful that they will voluntarily come to court.

If they do so the fines they will undoubtedly pay will go to the city's treasury, while if they are arrested and fight the cases and they go to a Superior Court the fine will go to the County of Essex, and the city of Gloucester will be left in the cold.

"I called this crowd in," said Parker, "to show that I had the goods on them and I laid my cards on the table. I gave them an opportunity they should accept. If they don't, I'll get them anyway."

ALL PHONES IN ATHOL TO BE CUT OFF

Athol, Nov. 19.—While the telephone company sets forth at length its need for $100,000,000, this town is informed it will be without telephone service of any kind from 10 o'clock Saturday night until sometime Sunday.

The announcement was made by Manager E. P. Wilbur of the local exchange of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Twelve men will start to work at 10 p. m. Saturday to take out 600 wires and replace them with a circuit of 1,800 wires. According to telephone company officials, it is necessary that service be discontinued during the work.

Irate citizens of the town, which has 10,000 inhabitants, today declared the discontinuance of telephone service for twelve hours or more constitutes a menace.

They pointed out that during that period no one will be able to telephone for a physician, or call the police or firemen by telephone. In many cases, they said, the prompt use of the telephone has prevented a catastrophe.

As an evidence of the necessity of continuous telephone service, they point to an incident which occurred in Springfield yesterday. Mrs. Lucy P. Eckert and her two sons, Raymond and William, were overcome by fumes from a new furnace at their home. Raymond Eckert, who is employed in the office of the city collector, managed to call his office by telephone. The clerk who answered the call had difficulty in understanding what the stricken man said, but realized medical assistance was needed. A hurry call was sent for physicians, who revived the trio.

FEARED A TONG WAR, FINED FOR GUN-TOTING

In the Superior Criminal Court today two Chinamen who said they had armed themselves with revolvers because they feared a tong war, paid $250 each. Frank Patalona paid $325 for carrying a gun. Antonio Di Pirio and Louis Mazza, the former for carrying a revolver and the latter for having a dirk, were fined $325 each. Unable to pay they went to jail.

RUM-RUNNING BOATS ARE SOLD AT AUCTION

A crowd of 500 persons, the largest ever to turn out for an auction sale of rum running boats, was on hand at the Army Base today when thirteen confiscated power craft were knocked down to the highest bidders. Auctioneer W. C. MacKenzie obtained nearly $7,000 for them. The highest price was brought by the Julia III., for which Charles Fanti paid $1,200.

M'DADE TAKES HIS CASE TO COURT

Insists He Must Be Given a Hearing Under Civil Service Laws

James H. McDade, discharged deputy master of the House of Correction at Deer Island, today filed in the State Supreme Court a petition for a writ of mandamus, calling upon his superiors to restore him to his former position.

The demand will be given a hearing before Justice Crosby on December 2. The respondents are Dr. David J. Johnson, commissioner of institutions of the city of Boston and James M. Molloy, master of the House of Correction.

In his petition, McDade states that he is a war veteran, honorably discharged from service, and has the privilege of a hearing under the Civil Service laws. He declares he was discharged without reason after four years' service at Deer Island.

McDade's dismissal came as a result of the investigation and report on Deer Island by State Commissioner of Prisons Sanford Bates, followed by another investigation by five city councillors, Healy, Lane, Gilbody, Walsh and Purcell.

A deadlock in the effort to launch a second investigation is forecast. The five city councillors, acting in their capacity of county commissioners, have called for a meeting of the commissioners. It is believed that Mayor Curley, who is chairman of the county commissioners, may rule the notice of meeting illegal.

Lays Wreath

ETHNA JONES

While State Commissioner of Education Payson Smith and students and faculty of the Boston University School of Religious Education and Social Service looked on, Miss Ethna Jones laid a wreath at the foot of the statue of Horace Mann in memory of the founder of the modern public school system. The ceremony was a feature of the observance of Education Week.

Previous to the laying of the wreath, Commissioner Smith addressed the students, faculty and public at Pilgrim Hall, the day being set apart as "Horace Mann Day." Commissioner Smith pointed out that at present the dominant spirit in education was social service rather than promotion of self.

OFFICER FILES RING OFF AS GIRL FAINTS

Somerville Police Lieutenant Probably Saves the Life of Intoxicated Prisoner

Police Lieutenant James M. Harmon of Somerville may be a stern officer, but he has a big heart under his blue coat, and a girl prisoner has him to thank today for her health and perhaps her life.

The girl, Abbie L. Martin, twenty-three years old, of Broadway, Somerville, was locked up for alleged intoxication, and at 3 o'clock this morning she was found suffering tortures, her ring-finger swollen and discolored.

Lieutenant Harmon decided he must get off the broad gold band which clung tightly to her finger. He looked for a file, but there wasn't any in the station. He tried to get a jeweler, but jewelers weren't answering telephones at that hour.

Finally, with Mrs. Mina Weeks, the matron, he took the girl out of her cell and drove her to his own home at No. 16 Hancock street. There he filed off the ring while the girl fainted from the pain. As soon as the ring was off, the finger gradually resumed its normal shape and color.

The girl told of visiting a lawyer in the Old South Building, of meeting a friend there and drinking whiskey for a cold. The next she remembered, she said, was waking up in Powder House square, Somerville, in great pain.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause — Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

TOOK $10 GIVEN FOR MOTHER'S FUNERAL

Spent the Money on Himself, Wife Testifies in Suit for Divorce

After listening to Mrs. Myrtle M. Neal of Brookline tell how her husband—a church trustee—had spent $10 which she had given him to pay for flowers for his mother's funeral, in connection with other accusations, Judge McCoole in Norfolk County Probate Court granted her a divorce from Frederick A. Neal.

Neal charged the flowers, his wife testified, and spent the money for himself. Cruelty also figured in the case.

Mrs. Lillian M. Green of Weymouth was granted a divorce from Walter E. Green, moving picture man. GEORGIANA, VIRGINIA AND MARJORIE KILLION

WALSH PLANS CLEANUP IN REVERE

Dr. John E. Walsh, who won by 834 votes the nomination for Mayor of Revere in what proved to be a political upset there, made it known today he plans a vigorous fight to clean up alleged vice and liquor-selling in the Revere Beach district.

He will begin, if elected, he says, by naming a strict license commission with the chief of police as head.

The commission will be ordered to reduce the number of licenses issued to restaurants and similar establishments.

Dr. Walsh says he will call a conference between the superintendent of Metropolitan Police and the Revere police chief, in an effort to bring about greater co-operation between the two law enforcement departments.

PLANS CHANGES.

It is his hope also, Dr. Walsh said, to reach an agreement with insurance companies whereby owners of homes on the outskirts of Revere, who at present are unable to obtain fire insurance because of the existing fire laws, can obtain such protection.

The owners of the homes destroyed by fire at Oak Island within the last few days lost everything, as none of them had been granted insurance on their properties.

Dr. Walsh becomes the Republican candidate, which in Revere is considered equivalent to winning the election. Mayor Noone has been Mayor for two terms of two years each.

The primaries brought out 9,500 voters in Revere and considerable excitement and bitter feeling characterized the day.

Six arrests were made by details of State Constabulary, sent to the polling places to prevent illegal voting. There was much betting, with Noone a 10 to 7 favorite.

Dr. Walsh announced today his intention to retain Chief of Police John J. Dyer, but changes in other departments are expected. Many of the new candidate's supporters were carried with him into the nomination, [illegible] William M. Keevey for city treasurer.

MAY USE STICKERS.

WARD COUNCILMEN.

Ward 1—Harry B. Pray, nominated with 1,028 votes; William E. Hancock, 602.

Ward 2—Joseph Riseman nominated with 1,122 votes; Frank M. Bodner, 681.

Ward 3—Parker J. Brown nominated, 729; Michael Morelli, 712; Albert Terminello, 368; Philip Sheridan, 209; John W. Conner, 84.

Ward 4—Athel M. Coolidge nominated with 1,042; McAuley, 490; Robert McLaugh, 315.

Ward 5—James F. Robertson nominated with 283; Richard Armstrong, 259; Fred C. Lane, 194; John H. Norton, 147; DeWitt C. Rodearmel, 60; John E. Lyons, 27.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The following were nominated for the School Committee places: Henry J. Atkins, 3,388; Patrick A. Collins, 3,893; Simon Fleischer, 3,111; J. V. Murray, 3,676.

In Everett, Mayor Lester D. Chisholm and former Mayor Christopher Harrison were chosen by their parties to be candidates in the elections next month.

John D. Devir and Howard Fall won the nominations in a closely contested fight at Malden, while in Chelsea Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley led his opponent, Joseph A. Terrel by a margin of 100 votes. Chelsea voters also nominated Miss Cecil Cohen for alderman-at-large.

John A. Flanagan was renominated for alderman and director of Public Property at Lawrence. He led Michael F. Scanlon, a former incumbent, by 3,400 votes, while Robert S. Maloney defeated William H. D. Vose for alderman and director of health and charities. Four candidates were nominated for member of the school committee.

Mayor Michael J. O'Hara polled 13,086 votes to 5,121 by Arthur T. Squires in the Worcester primaries.

Next in interest to the unexpectedly close race for the mayoralty nomination in Chelsea was the candidacy of Miss Cecile Cohen for alderman at large. Miss Cohen, a teacher in Everett High school, is the first woman ever to aspire to political office in Chelsea, except as a member of the school committee. She is one of the four nominated for the post. There are two vacancies to be filled in the elections next month.

Woman Wants Own Sex Lashed for Drug Peddling

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 19.—The flogging of women drug traffickers meets with the approval of Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith of Vancouver, who voted for a resolution adopted in the Legislature to authorize the lash for convicted drug traffickers.

"We can't make the punishment too heavy for men, and women, too, who traffic in narcotic drugs," Mrs. Smith said. "If a woman breaks the law she should get the same punishment as a male lawbreaker."

CREAM QUICKLY CHECKS A COLD

Air Passages Opened—Head Cleared—Misery Stopped by Ely's Cream Balm.

If the children are feverish, fretful from a head cold or catarrh with nostrils clogged and head all stuffed-up, just apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into the nostril. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing, swollen, inflamed membrane and they obtain instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Nothing clears the head so quickly. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath will be gone. This is so much better than drugging children that every mother should use Ely's Cream Balm.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

CHILDREN PINE FOR MISSING PUPPY

Dorchester folks, attention, please! Have any of you seen a little French bulldog puppy, six months old, with a white head, dark left ear, dark brindle body and two white front feet?

If you have, will you please tell little Georgiana, Virginia and Marjorie Killion of No. 85 Topliff street, Dorchester? They are very unhappy. They miss their daily frolic with "Buster," and also his goodnight "kiss," which is delivered in his own quaint way at bedtime.

A week ago "Buster" went into the back yard to play with his mother. The Killion kiddies went out shortly after to see him. He was missing and has been ever since. The dog's mother is pining for her puppy and refuses to eat anything. So, if you see him, please make the kiddies happy by bringing him back to them.

HOME MARKET CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Business Has Renewed Confidence, Declares President E. Kent Swift

The annual meeting of the Home Market Club took place today at No. 99 Bedford street. E. Kent Swift was re-elected president and the following new vice-presidents were chosen: Charles Cheney of South Manchester, Ct.; Andrew Adie of Boston, S. O. Bigney of Attleboro and Charles Fletcher of Providence.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Senator Lodge, Walter E. Parker, agent-emeritus of the Pacific Mills, Lawrence, and Colonel Joseph E. Fletcher of the Coronet Worsted Company, Providence, the latter two having been officers of the club many years.

"The great need of today," said President Swift, "is to lessen the cost of government. The administration is making valiant efforts along these lines, but certain expenses are fixed and constant. It is only just that imported commodities should pay their proportionate share of those expenses for the privilege of entering American markets in competition with our merchandise.

"During the fiscal year of 1923 our national treasury derived $582,764,105 from import levies. Although conditions have been somewhat depressed this year, the revenue from this source will be well over the half billion mark.

"With the recent electoral demonstration against socialism, with an abounding trust in our national leaders, with a spirit of constructive co-operation in our legislative bodies and with a complete faith in America, we can face the future with renewed confidence."

WOMEN REJECTED AT BANGOR PRIMARIES

Bangor, Me., Nov. 19.—Women candidates for council fared badly in the Republican caucuses here. Mrs. Virginia Holbrook was last of a field of five in Ward 4, lacking forty votes. Mrs. Marian Williston ran fourth in a field of five with three to be elected and was beaten by only two votes.

Mayor Crosby was unopposed and will be a candidate for re-election against choice of Democratic caucus tomorrow.

JUDGE SCORNS HOLDUP MAN'S MERCY PLEA

Only by Grace of God Victim Was Not Killed, the Court Says, Imposing Sentence

Arthur Sullivan was sent to state prison for from five to six years by Judge Bishop in Superior Criminal Court today for holding up the proprietor of a gasoline filling station on Stuart street.

Sullivan pleaded for leniency, but Judge Bishop told him:

"Holdups are altogether too common in Boston. It was only by the grace of God that you didn't pull the trigger of the gun that you held in the face of your victim."

John Barrett, twenty years old, who was with Sullivan in the holdup, was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction after Sullivan had made a plea for him on the ground that he had no part in the crime and was drunk when it was committed.

Fourth of a series of advertisements regarding the telephone situation in New England

Pulling Together

We are going to need, during the next five years, $100,000,000 of new money to extend telephone facilities for present and future subscribers of this company.

In order to get it we must demonstrate your willingness to pay for it, because money has its market price just as corn or cotton has; and we must get this money from the telephone investor rather than from the telephone user.

Some telephone users seem to think that their monthly payments for service supply the money with which to build telephone plant. This is not so. Telephone users do something equally important, however. By adequate payments for service they provide a fair return on the property built with the money supplied by telephone investors.

We expect to get new money, as needed, from the savings of New England people. One-fourth of our stockholders have five shares or less each; nine-tenths of them less than fifty shares each. They, and others like them, will continue to put their savings at your service provided they are paid for its use and their investment is protected.

New England needs this new money in order to further develop an efficient telephone system. We ask only for rates that will enable this company to get it and thus to continue its service as an asset to the business and social welfare of New England.

GEN. BULLARD HEAPS PRAISE ON 'JANICE'

Army Commander Likes Faithful Portrayal of Stirring Historical Scenes

Probably no other motion picture ever made has appealed to so wide a circle of men, women and children as "Janice Meredith," in which Marion Davies is starred and which will have its first showing in this city next Monday at the Majestic Theatre.

The reason for this is obvious. "Janice Meredith" possesses all of the qualities which endear a screen production to the public. It has a wealth of romance, a love story as beautiful and as fragrant as an old rose garden. It has suspense, excitement, adventure and action, action, action! There is also abundant humor. Costumes and settings are dreams of loveliness. Historically this picture of the American Revolution is undoubtedly the finest lesson of patriotism that has ever been filmed.

Major-General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the Second Army Corps Area, has written a most complimentary letter to Cosmopolitan Productions, expressing his enthusiasm. He wrote:

"'Janice Meredith' appealed to me as being a picture not only of excellent dramatic value, but also through its portrayal of historic scenes one which should tend to arouse the patriotic instincts of Americans.

"While viewing the famous Twenty-sixth Infantry of the First Division, which was used in the picture in the Revolutionary battles of Trenton and Yorktown, I was reminded of the World War when, figuratively speaking, these troops gallantly fought side by side with the English.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the picture, particularly the close attention to detail illustrated in the exercises and manœuvres of the troops."

WHO WOULDN'T SIT UP AND LISTEN TO HER?

MARION DAVIES

Who comes here next Monday in that romantic film of the Revolutionary period, "Janice Meredith." The dog, shown here with the petite beauty, is as hypnotized by Miss Davies as her thousands of admirers.

BREWERY GIVEN RIGHT TO MAKE NEAR BEER

"There is a growing tendency to interfere with personal liberty and with the freedom of legitimate business," declared Federal Judge George W. Anderson when, following a hearing, he restored to the Burkhardt Brewing Corporation of this city the permit to manufacture near-beer, which was recently taken away by prohibition officials in Washington.

Judge Anderson ruled that the alleged unlawful beverages discovered by Prohibition Director Potter's staff were owned by the superintendent of the brewery and were held by him for his own use without the knowledge of the Burkhardt Corporation.

GIRL BREAKS PAROLE, GETS 6 MONTHS IN JAIL

Ada Guberman, formerly bookkeeper for a Portland street hardware firm and who lives at No. 23 Hollander street, stood before the Municipal Court charged with violation of her parole.

When agents of the Stores Mutual Protective Association brought forth witnesses to show that since being put on probation for larceny from the hardware store and one other since last Summer, she had passed $100 worth of bad checks in department stores. She was sentenced to six months in jail.

BOY IS 'RULER' OF BOSTON POLICE

Messengers Also "Fill" Other Conspicuous Positions on the Force

Boston's police department had a new superintendent today.

He was a Western Union messenger boy, a position at one time held by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley.

Messenger boys also sat in the chairs of various other police officials, including the deputy superintendents, and Chief Inspector John R. McGarr.

Some time ago Western Union officials submitted a questionnaire to the boys, in which they were asked whether they would prefer to be Governor, Mayor, fire chief or superintendent of police.

Almost without exception the boys elected for the police job, and today's innovation was arranged.

The boys held the positions only a short time, however, and it is suspected they obtained but little insight into the inner workings of the police department.

BILL WOULD RESTORE PENSIONS FOR JUDGES

Pension privileges taken away from the judges of the Superior Court when their salaries were raised from $8,000 to $10,000 in 1920 would be restored under the provisions of a bill filed today with the clerk of the Senate by Senator John W. McCormack of South Boston on petition of J. Arnold Farrer.

Foreign Poster Exhibit Entrances Throng at Ellis Memorial Sale

By BETTY ALDEN.

THOUGH BOSTON has seen little indeed of Mrs. Christopher LaFarge for the last few years, the comings and goings and doings of the former Louisa Hoar are always of keenest interest here.

It was two Junes ago that the younger daughter of Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett became the bride of young LaFarge, the ceremony taking a goodly-sized Boston contingent to Washington.

Since their marriage, the young people have spent most of their time abroad, but I note that they returned to these shores just the other day. They landed in New York, which, I believe, is to be their future home.

Both the one-time Louisa Hoar and her sister, Mrs. Reggy Foster (Frances Hoar), made their bows before Boston's charmed inner circles and in the years since their debuts they have both scintillated their way very brightly through several Vincent Club shows and similar entertainments staged for charity.

Few of the younger women of society may boast of more skill and grace as interpreters of Terpsichore. I recall most distinctly their exquisite dance in "Why Not," a musical show presented by society three Springs ago for the Infants' Hospital.

In addition to their Terpsichorean artistry, the Hoar sisters, as society still calls them, are possessed of no end of "pep" and personality.

It was, in fact, quite a "deathblow" to members of Boston's younger-married coterie when the former Fanny Hoar and her husband sailed in September for Paris, where young Foster's business connections will keep them definitely. Their marriage, also a Washington ceremony, took place in June of 1921, and following the return from their long wedding journey around the world, they took up their home on Revere street, Beacon Hill.

MISS MARGERY RICHARDSON

ONLY a person absolutely immune to the little God of Wanderlust could have seen the travel posters at the Ellis Memorial without wanting to set sail for foreign shores.

These pictures are really quite interesting. They were painted by some of the finest artists in France and England, depicting, for commercial purposes, the scenic glories and wonders of various spots.

There was one charming picture showing the narrow, crooked streets of a Normandy village, with its quaint little houses each built tight against the other.

Another scene breathed of the awesome grandeur of the Alps with their purplish peaks rearing themselves grandly into the sky.

One artist had painted a fascinating old Viking ship to lure folk to the land of the fearless Norsemen. Another had painted a delightfully inviting picture of that sunshiny region, the Riviera.

And so on down the list. Picturesque Brittany, Morocco, the Italian lakes—all were depicted in all their irresistible enchantment.

The exhibition which was held on Monday at the Ellis Memorial House on Berkeley street was made possible through the interest of Miss Isabella Whittier of Milton, who collected the posters during her recent travels abroad.

FEW EVENTS of the midwinter saeson are enjoyed more keenly than the senior and junior supper dances.

This year the junior affairs—primarily for the debbies and the girls who've been out a year or two and the cavaliers of all—have on their committee Miss Margery Richardson, one of the prettiest buds of two Winters ago; Miss Rosamond Borland, daughter of the William Gibson Borlands; Mrs. George R. Fearing, Jr. (Vera Howell), who decided to become a very youthful bride instead of a debutante, and Mrs. David Sears, with the male contingent—Harvard men—represented by Standish Bradford, Malcolm Bradlee, George C. Lee, Jr., George Wadsworth Sturgis, William P. Dixon and Benjamin Franklin Rice-Bassett, the last two named of New York.

Supt. Gannon Feels Fine--Is Enthusiastic

Says Language Cannot Express Good Done By Adlerika

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble for years. I have not yet used up the first bottle of Adlerika as I only take it mornings but have already begun to enjoy good health. Language cannot express the good [illegible] is doing me." (Signed) J. T. Gannon, Superintendent Potomac Gas and Oil Company.

Intestinal Evacuant

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and to cause expulsion of flatus (GAS). This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the bowels of matter which has been in the system a long time and which other less effective means have been unable to dislodge. It is often astonishing the great amount of matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—even right after a natural movement it sometimes brings out unsuspected quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, thus relieving pressure in the abdomen. Adlerika is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of metabolic poisons through the bowel.

In slight disorders such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel inaction), a single spoonful of Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In cases of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not [illegible] in 24 to [illegible] hours the advice of a reputable physician should be secured.

Reports from Physicians

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"[illegible] in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"I prescribed Adlerika with highly satisfactory results." (Signed) Dr. A. C. [illegible] (Name given on request.)

"I can't get along without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. H. Bernhart.

J. E. Puckett (a user of Adlerika) writes: "After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the impurities eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are made of pine and syrups. The "syrup" is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel it take right hold of a cough or cold. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SEEK FORMER SUITOR IN WOMAN'S SLAYING

Detroit, Nov. 19.—A former suitor of Mrs. Anna Lee Bowers, 27, is being sought by police in connection with her death.

Mrs. Bowers was found strangled to death with a piece of her clothing. Strips of her dress had been used to bind her hands and feet.

Six letters, said to have been written by a former admirer, were found. Lee C. Hawkins, detained when he reported the woman's death, still is in custody, although police express doubt that he has any connection with the slaying.

BASKET FUND PRAISED BY CLERGYMAN

Dances and Entertainments Are Planned to Aid Christmas Drive

Prominent persons in all walks of life continue to endorse the Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American which is to feed thousands of needy families in Greater Boston on Christmas.

The Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street Church, one of the leading clergymen of this city, has added his words of praise for the fund to those of Governor Cox, Major-General Edwards, Cardinal O'Connell and Mayor Quinn of Cambridge. Dr. Conrad's letter to the Christmas Fund director endorsing this fund is as follows:

"I most heartily endorse the effort of the Boston American to carry good cheer into needy homes at Christmas time, through The Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund. Whatever we may do to increase life's joys we should do eagerly and gladly.

"Trusting that as in other years, the largest success may attend the efforts of the Boston American,

Very Sincerely Yours,
(signed) A. Z. CONRAD."

Many hundreds of kiddies will be fed as a result of an evening of magic, music and dancing in Hannum Hall in Central square, Cambridge, Friday, December 5. This affair will be conducted under the auspices of the Yates Troupe. Mr. Yates and all members of his troupe of magicians, musicians and dancers are contributing their services free for the occasion and are also doing their utmost to make the affair a financial success.

TREMONT TEMPLE HELPS.

Many persons are taking advantage of the coupons which appear daily in the American for all performances of the master photoplay, "Over the Top With the Allies," at Tremont Temple.

All who have witnessed this thrilling picture say it is one of the finest of its kind ever shown in this city. In addition the show also includes a Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy comedy feature and singing by the Imperial Quartet.

The coupons will be good for any performance this week, including the matinees, which begin at 2:15 o'clock. The coupons are worth 25 cents each towards one reserved orchestra seat for any performance until and including next Saturday.

Aid Basket Fund

MARIAN BROPHY
MARGARET BOWL

Miss Bowl will take part in the entertainment to be given by Miss Brophy in aid of the Boston American's Christmas Basket Fund at the Music Box next month.

Half of what is paid at the box office when these coupons are redeemed will go to the American's Christmas Fund. In other words, a regular 50-cent orchestra seat for a matinee performance will be sold for 25 cents with a coupon and half of the 25 cents thus paid will be turned over to the American's fund, Christmas.

MANY CHILDREN HELPING.

Miss Bertha Ruby of 60 Beale street, Brookline, who has aided the American Fund in many ways, is one of the many school children active this season. Under the guidance of her mother, who is interested in many philanthropies, of which she considers the American Fund one of the most practical, Miss Ruby is planning to turn in enough money to buy many dinners for the needy this year.

An entertainment and dancing party at which the evolution of the dance will be a feature, is to be given in behalf of the fund on Monday evening, December 15, at Huntington Chambers Hall, 30 Huntington avenue, under the auspices of the Taylor School of Stage Arts. Many of the talented pupils of this school will participate in the entertainment, which will continue from 8 until 9:30 p.m. Dancing will follow until 12 o'clock. This school gave a party for the fund last season which resulted in dinners for more than thirty families:

Cod Liver Oil Now in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

FIGHT TO SAVE BATTLESHIP GOES ON

Weather May Decide Issue of Destruction of U. S. S. Washington

By SEARS TAYLOR.

Washington, Nov. 19 (Universal). —Attorneys for William B. Shearer, expert, who is fighting to save the U. S. S. Washington from destruction, are making every effort to secure an immediate hearing on the case in the District Court of Appeals.

The same court dismissed an application for a temporary injunction to restrain Secretary of the Navy Wilbur from destroying the big battleship until the hearing is held.

Justices Robb and Van Aadel, who heard the plea for a temporary injunction, refused to grant it on technical grounds and the merits of the case were not discussed.

Wilton J. Lambert, who heads the legal array which is battling to save the Washington from destruction, declared that the dismissal of the application for a temporary injunction was incidental and that he was confident that when the merits of the case were discussed at the regular hearings, the court would rule in favor of Shearer.

The weather, however, will probably decide whether or not the $30,000,000 super-dreadnought will be sent to the bottom of the ocean. High winds and a rough sea off the Virginia capes, where the tests were to be made, caused a delay in the bombardment.

Naval officials declared that it may be several days before the sea is calm enough to permit the tests. If Attorney Lambert succeeds in obtaining a hearing on the case now pending in the court of appeals before the storm now raging over the Atlantic subsides, there is a possibility that the Washington will be saved.

AUTOIST KILLED WHEN MACHINE STRIKES POLE

Newport, R. I., Nov. 19.—Robert Jensky of Providence was killed when the auto he was driving at a high rate of speed crashed into a telegraph pole at Cozy Corner, in Portsmouth. His companions, William Andrews and Thomas McNeal, both of Providence, were injured.

LYNN COUNCIL VOTES FOR NEW WATER FRONT

The Lynn City Council voted a bond order of $1,500,000 and appointed a consulting engineer to erect a new sewerage system in the city and remove the harbor nuisance which was reported to have caused Henry Ford to drop his proposed plan to establish a motor plant at West Lynn.

For three months the council had argued over the naming of an engineer to perform the work, but they voted unanimously in favor of Morris Knowles Company, Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Plans call for development of the Lynn waterfront, the Saugus River and the aviation field near the Point of Pines.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

FEAR BLOODSHED IN WATER RIGHTS FIGHT

Independence, Cal., Nov. 19.—Bloodshed in the fight between Owens Valley residents and the city of Los Angeles over the valley's water rights appeared certain today. Large quantities of arms and ammunition were taken to the Alabama Hills aqueduct spillway for use of the raiders who seized the gates Sunday. The raiders posted sentries, erected searchlights, nailed an American flag to one of the seized city buildings and awaited developments.

IBANEZ FLAYS KING AS FRIEND OF GAMBLERS

Noted Author Declares Spain "Can Not Talk and Can Not Wait"

By VICENTE BLASCO IBANEZ.

Paris, Nov. 19 (Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service)—Spain today is a nation which cannot talk and cannot wait. The hour was struck for the publication of my book, "Alphonso the Thirteenth Unmasked."

Today Alphonso is the associate of gambling resort keepers, and for fifty years the Kings of Spain have not built a single school. Alphonso is a tragic shadow on the fair name of Spain. He must go.

The world has a funny opinion of Alphonso. You think of him as a King, just like other monarchs, a charming mannequin machine to sign documents. Of a verity is Alphonso the Thirteenth the great nephew of Ferdinand the Seventh, who betrayed Napoleon.

You thought him a Francophile during the war while as a matter of fact the French military attache at Madrid was forced deliberately to give false information which the German Embassy sent to Berlin a few hours later. That is how Francophile he was.

That is the kind of good friend to the allies our King was.

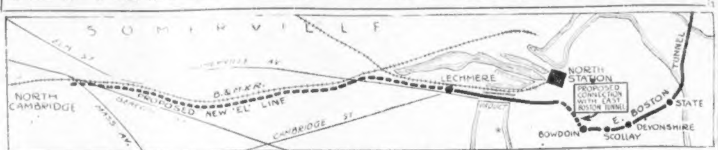
NEW PLAN TO LINK B. & M. WITH ELEVATED



PROJECT CALLS FOR BIG NEW TERMINAL AT BOWDOIN SQUARE TO CONNECT WITH EAST BOST ON TUNNEL

Counterfeiter Paints Picture of Woman On Prison Wall

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 19.—The figure of a woman, draped in a tiger skin on which she is reclining, graces the cold steel wall of the corridor of an upper tier of cells in the Manchester Jail.

The painting, done in oils, is the work of Samuel P. Allen, notorious counterfeiter who has passed half of his life in prisons ranging from the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta to Manchester.

The vividness of the work is startling to one who comes upon it suddenly at the end of the cold dark corridor. Allen even has achieved the effect of a heavy gilt frame around the picture and the artist's touch and gift for colors has made a picture worthy to grace the finest museum.

Allen has named his picture "I Wonder" and has dedicated it to the memory of Sheriff John T. O'Dowd, who had befriended him.

'L' TRAINS ON B. & M. TRACKS PLANNED

Plans to utilize a portion of the Boston & Maine Northern Division tracks and the extension of the Boylston street subway beyond Governor square to increase rapid transit facilities in Greater Boston were set forth at the meeting of the Metropolitan Planning Board at the State House.

It would start at Lechmere square and follow the general line of the Southern Division as far as the bridge over the Fitchburg tracks. From there it would go over private property to Washington street where a large terminal would be erected, thence over the right of way of the railroad through the Somerville cut to Somerville Junction where the Arlington branch would be taken over the railroad tracks to North Cambridge.

"It may be best to join this line to the East Boston tunnel," said Harriman. "Trains from North Cambridge to Lechmere square could come in over the viaduct to Causeway street and then by a connection 1,500 feet long to the Bowdoin square station."

Concerning extension of the Boylston street subway beyond Governor square, Brookline residents suggested extension of the Boylston street subway from Kenmore Station to a point near Coolidge Corner and referred to the great amount of traffic on the Beacon street line. Chairman Henry I. Harriman of the Planning Board said that the traffic over Commonwealth avenue lines is greater and said the count shows 30,000 passengers daily over Commonwealth avenue and only 18,000 over the Beacon street lines.

FEAR FLIER HAS FALLEN INTO CHANNEL

Le Bourget, France, Nov. 19 (I.N.S.)—Admiral Sacadura Cabral, Portuguese ace, who started a hydroplane flight from Rotterdam to Portugal, has fallen into the Atlantic, naval officers fear. When last seen he was over the English Channel.

French airplanes and hydroplanes are searching the seacoast. Cabral flew from Portugal to South America two years ago.

LEWIS MUM AS TO PLACE IN CABINET

MINE WORKERS CONDEMN RAIL BROTHERHOOD

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 19 (I.N.S.)—Dark clouds lowered today over the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Just when it seemed that all was calm and leaders thought they had removed all differences, the United Mine Workers presented a resolution condemning the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and its president, Warren S. Stone, in connection with the operation of the railmen's coal properties in West Virginia and Kentucky.

The miners charged that the brotherhood is operating it collieries on a non-union basis, paying less than the union rates, evicting miners and their families, and by posting armed guards about the properties is jeopardizing the lives of mine union organizers.

The Federation is asked to condemn Stone and the brotherhood policy and t onotify all State and Central labor unions of its action.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, is leading the battle for the passage of the resolution. Major George L. Berry, president of the ressmen's Union, will be floor leader for the miners.

William J. Johnston, president of the Machinists, and Bert M. Jewell, of the Shopmen, are the chiefs of the opposing faction. Stones' organization has never been affiliated with the Federation.

14-ROUND DUEL IS STOPPED AT ROME

Rome, Nov. 19.—Deputy Eugo Chiesa and Signor Tamborini, member of the Florentine Legion Volunteer Militia, today fought a duel with swords.

Chiesa was challenged in consequence of his attacks on the militia which were published by Voce Republicana. The duel continued fourteen rounds and neither was wounded. Doctors ordered a suspension of the conflict, despite Chiesa's protest. There was no reconciliation.

CHEROKEE PRINCESS FACES NEW TROUBLE

New York, Nov. 19 (I.N.S.)—Princess Atalie Unkalunt, Cherokee concert singer, recently exonerated of the charge of stealig silks belonging to George H. Ainslie, wealthy art dealer, will know today whether the white man's law runs on forever. Mrs. Lucie Benedict, daughter of Ainslie, complainant in the larceny case, asks that the case be put before the grand jury. The Princess testified some articles found in her possession were "planted," while others had been given her by Ainslie. She at one time was a Boston University and Boston Conservatory of Music student.

CHARGES DRUG DULLED MRS. ROUGHAN

Women Fight to See Mrs. Risteen at Death Trial

GIRL BANDIT TO WED

Leona Sheehan, twenty-year-old Manchester, N. H., girl, on probation for taking part in the robbery of a Harvard student in Cambridge, will soon be married to Robert E. Stevens, forty-year-old engineer of the Boston Art Club, according to the girl's counsel. Stevens, unknown to the girl, espoused her cause on hearing her story.

POLICEMAN ACCUSES WIDOW

Told Him She Was With Plummer When Husband's Body Was Disposed Of

Salem, Nov. 19.—The cause of the death of Fred R. Risteen is still undetermined, Medical Examiner George A. Stickney of Beverly admitted today in District Court, when Mrs. Marion Risteen and George W. Plummer of Beverly went on trial charged with Risteen's murder.

Hundreds of women fought for seats in the courtroom to watch Mrs. Risteen. She maintained a stocial calm while a police lieutenant told how she admitted to him she accompanied Plummer on the ojurney to dispose of the body.

The trial began after four continuances. Risteen met his death on September 21. His body, weighted down and submerged in a pond, was discovered several days later.

CAUSE A PUZZLE.

Several autopsies, according to Medican Examiner Stickney, have not convinced the authorities as to what caused death. The vital organs are now under microscopic examination of Medican Examiner George B. Magrath of Suffolk County.

The medical examiner admitted, under questioning by Defence Attorney William H. McSweeney, that he removed the death certificate which he filed with the clerk of courts to his home, keeping it there for two weeks.

"Are you still undecided as to what caused death?" McSweeney asked.

"We are," replied Stickney.

A wound on the left side of the head, just above the ear, testified Dr. Stickney, was the only outward sign of violence.

TELLS OF CONVERSATION.

Lieut. George E. Welch of the Beverly police related his conversation with Mrs. Ristn whn th murdered man's wife admitted accompanying Plumber to Norwood Park, where Risteen's body was bound, weighted and thrown into the pond.

"'Plummer came into the house and told me to go outside with him, Mrs. Risteen said,'" Welch testified.

"She said she accompanied Plummer out to their automobile and that he drove her to a gravel pit on Essex street, Beverly, where, behind a garage, he showed her Risteen's body.

"Plummer conveyed the body to Norwood Park, Mrs. Risteen said, and there weighted the body, put it into a boat and rowed out into the pond where he threw it over the side."

Lieutenant Welch declared that two auto cylinder heads and a painter's hook, weighting sixty-three pounds in all, had been used to hold down the body.

2 AMERICAN WIVES GET PARIS DIVORCES

Paris, Nov. 19 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Anson L. Clark of New York, formerly Miss Valeria Knapp, was granted a divorce today in the Seine tribunal on the grounds of "defamation of character in the press." The Clarks were married in Greenwich, Ct., April 22, 1921, and lived in Elgin, Ill.

Mrs. George F. De Menasco, formerly Eleanor Kashel, was granted a divorce and custody of a five-months-old son. The De Menascos were married in New York May 9, 1923.

SAYS DRUG MOTHER'S CURSE

Mrs. Guarante Fights Roughan Will for the Sake of Her Three Children

For the sake of her three children, Mrs. Winifred R. Guarante of No. 165 Hammond street, Newton, has launched a fight to break the will of her mother, Mrs. Mary Roughan, wealthy widow of Charlestown. Besides her in the fight is her brother, Robert Roughan of California.

It is the contention of the three children of Mrs. Roughan that the use of narcotics to which she turned after being addicted to drink for many years, so dulled her mind that she signed a will turning over to an impecunious dancing teacher, thirty-five years her junior, whom she married, her estate valued at $170,000.

Sherman L. Whipple plans to support charges that Frank J. Allen, her youthful husband, unduly influenced Mrs. Roughan, by introducing letters written by him to young women whom he jilted in order to marry the well-to-do widow of one of Charlestown's most prominent citizens.

ACCUSES GROOM.

Allen was engaged to a comparatively poor girl in Washington when he met the widow. Mr. Whipple says that the dancing teacher jilted the Washington miss in order to marry Mrs. Roughan.

Becoming enamoured of Allen, Mrs. Roughan, according to the attorney, paid for his clothes, meals and the furniture for his apartment, before she married him. When she repented of the marriage and sought to rejoin the Roman Catholic Church, the attorney says, Allen refused to consent to a Catholic marriage ceremony until two days before she had made her will naming him the chief beneficiary. She died two weeks later.

Attorney Whipple has brought his evidence before Judge Joseph R. McCoole in Norfolk County Probate Court at Dedham, stating that he was ready to present it to a jury.

A sordid picture of how the young husband treated his aged wife was a part of the strange allegations in the suit which seeks to recover for the children of the widow the $170,000 her young husband now enjoys.

The attorney seeks to frame issuses on which the case can go before a jury, in an effort to have the will of Mrs. Allen set aside and her fortune returned to the children.

SANG TO WIDOW.

Meanwhile, the young husband is living in a luxurious Brookline home which his aged wife purchased before her death, last May.

"O What a Pal Was Mary," sang the young dancing teacher to Mrs. Roughan, Attorney Whipple told the court.

"Then, in most courtly manner, the young dance hall expert would turn to the elder lady, register deep affection and love in his soft glances, and softly whisper in her ear "you've been a real pal, to me, too, Mary," he said.

Mrs. Roughan, whose husband, James Roughan wrested a fortune from the stevedore business in Charlestown, became as putty in the hands of young Allen, according to Attorney Whipple.

SAYS SHE PAID BILLS.

The widow's pocketbook, always burdened with bank-notes, received almost as much solicitude from the young wooer as did the widow herself, he asserted. When Mrs. Roughan and Allen went to the New Ocean House at Swampscott, Mr. Allen gallantly paid all the bills—out of Mrs. Roughan's pocketbook, according to Attorney Whipple.

His clothing was bought by the widow—her money was lavished on him, the court was told—and altogether Mr. Allen had a very comfortable time piloting the woman thirty-five years his senior about the country until they finally wound up before the altar of the Little Church Around the Corner.

After the aged woman's marriage, however, the real character of her husband began to display itself, he argued. It is alleged he wrote industriously to the banks throughout the State, seeking to learn the extent of his wife's fortune.

HUB GIRLS SCOFF AT ROUGE BAN

Natural Complexion May Be the Rule Abroad, but Not for This City

The Boston working girl will continue to use rouge and powder, in spite of the "no camouflage" rage which is now the fad among Frenchwomen. Latest news from Paris decrees that natural complexions have returned to fashion.

The heavy rouging, eyebrow plucking and other artificial means of beauty have been abandoned so that females now appear as they really are.

But it won't affect the American girl. The Boston American interviewed scores of girls in the business sections of the city, and the consensus of opinion is that they will go their own way uninfluenced by the French fad. Some of the views expressed are given here.

May Trackman, of No. 213 Harvard street, Brookline—"I will stick to American customs. Do as you please. Every girl has to decide for herself, and if she needs a little artificial aid to help her, why shouldn't she have it? The French fad will have no effect here."

Rhoda Rauch, No. 1311 Grant avenue, Cambridge—"Most girls do not pluck their eyebrows. I never did believe in that, but I can't see where there is any harm in a little rouge powder. I use both and am not ashamed to say so. I shall continue to do so."

Pauline Goldbreg, No. 1354 Stebbins avenue, Brighton—"I never did use rouge, a lipstick, or pluck my eyebrows. I think beauty should stand on its own. My boy friend likes me as I am and that satisfies me."

Grace Meister of No. 7 Glendale place, Brookline: "Any woman could get along without powder or rouge, but in a way a little of both is essential to almost every woman. I shall continue to do as I have always done, and use what Ithink I need."

Dry Law Convictions Deprive Town of Selectmen

Salisbury, Nov. 19.—When two of the three town selectmen are jailed for violations of the Volstead Act and the fate of the third is still pending on the same charge, who is going to run the works?

That is the question which is puzzling Salisbury.

Selectman Harold P. Congdon, who is also chief of police, and Selectman Ruel S. Getchell are preparing to begin services of sentences in the Plymouth county jail, as a result of recent convictions. Selectman Everett R. George, who has pleaded nolo to a charge of conspiracy in the same case, has not been tried.

If George is acquited, he will be the lone selectman and one selectman does not make a working majority of the board, under the law.

VOTES IN BOSTON, CAN'T ENTER BANGOR PRIMARIES

John G. Utterback

Bangor, Me., Nov. 19.—Bangor Democrats may not place a candidate in the field to oppose Mayor Charles D. Crosby because their most likely prospect, former Mayor John G. Utterback of the Utterback Gleason Company of Boston and Bangor, is ineligible due to his Boston residence.

Utterback returned here three months ago, after spending ten years in Boston. Democrats immediately decided he would be their candidate in the mayoralty contest, but it developed he had not changed his voting residence and even was unable to get a hunting license.

Chief interest in the Republican caucuses, which were held today, centered in the contests of Mrs. Marion Williston and Mrs. Virginia Holbrook for membership in the City Council.

Hospital Patient Escapes

Worcester, Nov. 19.—The Westboro State Hospital reported to the police the escape of Jennie Slakes, forty-five years old. She was described as 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 106 pounds, blue dress, light blue scarf and wearing glasses.

HARVARD REGULARS MISSING IN BIG GAME WITH BULLDOG

SUBS HAVE CHANCE TO GET GLORY

By NICK FLATLEY

RED CROSS emblems will probably take the place of numbers on the Harvard football players' backs in the large game at the Bowl Saturday. There are more cripples at ambridge than there are adjectives in a cross-word dictionary. Half the boys who were varsity regulars a few weeks ago will not be able to make the Yale game at all, and most of those who will get in are likely to be knocked loose before the collision is half way over. If the season hasn't been a disappointment anyhow, there would be great chagrin across the Charles. But as the aforementioned regulars didn't exactly uplift the Crimson cause when the Tigers came to the Stadium, there's not as woe in evidence as might be.

* * *

THE Cambridge coaches feel that they are just as likely to have their ambitious subs put up as sturdy a battle as the dispirited regulars could. The young men who weren't in line for letters and things haven't been spending the mild Fall in the hospital. They have been out playing every day, and they're ready for a rough and tough contest. And the Yale game will be all of that. The regulars, as many as possible, will get in the fray, but chances are they won't remain long. They haven't been shooting since Princeton, or before that, and as a result are softened up. When the pounding starts that will tell against them.

* * *

DOLPH CHEEK, who was to have been quarterback, hasn't even been in a practice scrimmage in three weeks. He couldn't go into a game now, if a chronically bad knee would let him, and expect to stand up under a lot of punishment. Jack Hammond hasn't scrimmaged since Princeton. Neither has Miller, who has a clavicle fracture, i. e., a bad shoulder, which makes straight arming impossible. Gehrke has a leg that bothers him; Spalding is escorting a cane around these days, and so is Daley, who figured to be the real star of the line. Gamache, converted into an end, also has pedal trouble and is just naturally resting it up. Izzy Zarakov is another limping hero.

* * *

ALL this sounds like one of the old time just-before-the-battle wails, but it's the truth. They have a lot of consideration for the athletes in Cambridge. When anything's wrong, the boys are kept on the sidelines. It doesn't help the cause, for many a young man could go out and bang along and let the wounds look out for themselves. They used to do that in the old days. Times have changed, though. Perhaps it's better for the youths concerned, but it doesn't help a coach much. The Dartmouth team went through a tough, rough season, with four regular backs, who played in every game. No doubt Hall and Dooley and Leavitt and Oberlander had minor bumps and bruises, but they were always out there when the whistle blew. The football school is ruggeder at most colleges than it is at Harvard.

* * *

THE Crimson heads are certain of one thing, however. Their team will fight Yale. They know that, because every Harvard team that ever played lived up to that tradition. There's always hope for a scrapping eleven, be they stars or mere unknowns from the scrub ranks. Most of the Harvard victories of the past were due more to the fighting spirit than to athletic excellence. George Owens figured largely in a couple of Yale triumphs that have been defeats, on the dope. So did Charlie Buell. So did most of the other stars. And a new spirit in the ranks which shows out during the last Crimson practice sessions tells the watchers that the fighting heart is back, whatever may be the sad situation of the crippled first stringers.

* * *

PRINCETON fought Yale furiously during the first half of the jungle battle, and the Blue didn't score, although evidently superior. But the punch was gone from the Tiger in the second half, and Yale proceeded to get ten points and should have had a dozen more. The Tigers didn't quit for a second. But discouragement had its unconscious effect, and Eli rode on to glory. A Crimson team that will fight to the last second of the last period, forgetting what the score may be, can ruin the morale and cockiness of Yale. That fighting spirit, take it from the coaches, is to be the biggest asset the Crimson will carry to the Bowl.

* * *

YALE, of course, realizes all this. They have seen Harvard invasions wreck the brightest hopes, down at New Haven. They have learned to count nothing sure in the big game. The Bulldogs will be sent out to smear the Crimson, but they will be confident, perhaps too much so. And that seems to be the only way they can possibly be beaten.

Pond, Not Kline, Threw Forward Pass in Princeton Game

New Haven, Nov. 19.—The forward pass which led to a touchdown in the Yale game at Princeton last Saturday was thrown by R. W. (Ducky) Pond, it was stated by Captain Lovejoy today. An argument had arisen among students as to whether Kline or Pond threw the pass. Newspaper accounts differed, even the Yale News crediting the throw to Kline. Neither Pond nor Kline could be reached and Captain Lovejoy officially ended the uncertainty today. Many students had backed their claims with cash and some of those who stood by Pond offered odds as high as 100 to 1.

Yale Prepares to Defend Goal Posts

New Haven, Nov. 19.—Yale undergraduates are planning to defend a possible Harvard attack on the goal posts in the bowl in case the unexpected happens Saturday and Harvard wins.

Yale set a bad example last year in the Cambridge Stadium when it broke off and carried home the Harvard goal posts. Yale tried to repeat the adventure at Princeton last Saturday, but Tiger alumni interfered and protected the posts.

At Yale the goal posts have been set deep in cement and only a powerful assault will result in breaking them of. Even then it is not certain that Harvard raiders would be sufficient in number to take the posts away from the bowl in safety.

Yale's two star ends, Dick Luman and Stanley Gill, were still out of condition today and Trainer George Connors would not predict that that either would positively face Harvard Saturday.

Luman's muscle bruises are improved, but he is still lame. With Gill the situation is more serious because it is feared one of the small bones in his hand are broken. He will not begin practicing until tomorrow.

WARNS HARVARD TO WATCH YALE SPEED PLAYS

By HERBERT REED.

("Right Wing.")

Looking over the games of Saturday, East and West, one realizes the force of Fielding Yost's statement the other day to the effect that football is rapidly approaching the status of baseball, and that plays go right or wrong by inches.

Consistency is becoming increasingly difficult in the gridiron game. A team has its big day and its poor day. Princeton had its big day at Harvard, while Yale had its big day against the Tigers, although there were plenty of evidences that the Blue was still an unfinished team.

There were lots of crude play here and there, play that probably will be smoothed out in the course of the week.

The best asset of the Elis, and one that was more than unexpected, was the sudden development of a drop-kicker.

This was the thing, apparently, that had been under cover. Many of us knew that Scott was one of the best backs on any of the Eastern elevens, that he was valuable in the running game, and that he was a kingpin in defence, but few realized that he had been built up as a drop-kicker.

HARVARD BIG OBJECTIVE.

The question now is whether the Elis will continue to come along against the Crimson on Saturday, and will show the same speed on that day that they did against the Tigers.

The peak of the season for the Blue is, of course, the Harvard game, although there was plenty of satisfaction in taking the Princeton battle, especially since the Tigers had achieved a great reputation in the Harvard Stadium.

Speed is such a tremendous factor in the modern game that its loss makes all the difference between victory and defeat.

Speed has won every football game worthwhile this season.

Princeton whipped up the speed for Harvard, and met greater speed by Yale. The problem is to keep the gait, it seems.

Many times I have felt that the Tigers were well equipped with defense, that the tradition of defense was as strong in that quarter as anywhere.

So it was something of a surprise to find a tackle uncovered on the forward pass.

The Tiger defense took good care of the usual eligibles, but they covered the Yale decoys and left Joss uncovered at the critical moment.

That Yale was willing to use this play, which might have been valuable against Harvard, was sufficient evidence of the overwhelming desire to beat Princeton this season.

The Elis turned on about all they had and made more than one scoring opening.

The frequent attempts to score by the field goal route were Yale's cover for the open game. A hard running game was also a help.

Harvard, beaten again by Brown and with the best men available in action, has little time to get ready for the Elis.

The Crimson eleven has been a puzzle all season. Harvard has played some excellent football, but against Princeton seemed to reach a stage of bewilderment unusual in a Cambridge eleven.

CROSS COUNTRY ENTRIES WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY

New York, Nov. 19.—Entries for the national A. A. U. senior individual and team cross-country championships which will be held at Van Cortlandt Park on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 29, will close next Monday at the A. A. U. headquarters, Room 303, No. 305 Broadway, New York City.

The Dorchester A. A. of Boston and the Finnish-American A. C. have already sent in their entries.

This will be the last of the series of cross-country runs held by the Metropolitan Association, A. A. U., for the season.

BILL GLENNON REJOINS H. C. ELEVEN

Worcester, Nov. 19.—Holy Cross College football spirit took a big jump when "Bill" Glennon, the star halfback, appeared at practice for the first time since the Harvard game on October 19. He suffered an injury which developed into water on the knee.

It was thought he was out of the game for the remainder of the season and the coaches were developing a new line of attack for the Boston College game, with Glennon eliminated, but he responded to treatment sooner than expected and resumed his place at left halfback, although he limped considerably.

Commerce Downs English

After trying hard for the last six years or so, Commerce finally downed its great rival, English High, 6 to 0, on the Braves Field gridiron.

PICK BURBANK AS REFEREE IN STASIAK TILT

The last tangle in the Stasiak-Binkley wrestling match was eradicated today when Burbank was agreed to as the third man in the ring. The battle will be waged at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

Joe Alvarez and Nick Bozines will meet in the semi-final, while the preliminaries will bring together Pete Dallas, the new Greek sensation, and Frank Dutcher and Sergeant Jim Burns of the Greenfield police and Chief Arthur Montour, the Indian champion.

Amherst Elects Moore

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 19.—Charles Moore of Englewood, N. J., a member of the class of 1920, was elected Captain of the Amherst football team for next year.

DARLING OUT OF VERMONT BATTLE

Vermont's eleven invades Boston this week with the firm resolve of adding one more to the total of B. C.'s line of defeats. The Keady clan, like Centenary, have been pointing to the Boston scrap, and with a recent victory over Norwich to their credit, come down with great power to tackle the Eagle.

A year ago these two teams battled to a scoreless tie on a muddy field, and the Green Mountaineers are eager to settle this score for all time.

Yarnell, premier punter of the Vermont eleven, is not in the best of shape. Harms, backfield ace, who received mention from Walter Camp last year, is again back with the squad and has been bearing the brunt of the Vermont attack.

Darling, B. C. punter, is also on the danger list. His foot is not in the best of condition, and playing against Centenary did not help its condition. The blond fullback has been limping around the school all week, although he is expected to don a uniform today. It is probable that he will watch the game from a critical position Saturday.

Juniors Win Track Meet

The juniors won the annual Fall interclass meet at Boston College with a total of 61 points, as against 28 for the sophs, 22 for the freshmen and 20 for the seniors. Joe

Paddock's Return Best for Sport

Some time ago the storm centre of a controversy among governing bodies of athletics, Charley Paddock is now welcomed as a delegate to the annual A. A. U. convention and [illegible] praised by its president, William C. Prout.

Whether the suspension of the national sprint champion by the A. A. U. for competing in Europe without sanction was justified may be questionable.

His reinstatement and subsequent competition in the Olympic games undoubtedly did much to prevent a wide breach between the national athletic body and the Southern Pacific Association.

Charley Paddock.

Boxing Notes

The Boston Lodge of Elks, No. 10, will stage an amateur boxing show for members and friends tonight at the club rooms, No. 10 Somerset street. Many of the leading amateur [illegible] have entered the tournament and the fans should get plenty of action. The following classes will be contested: 112, 147 and 160-pound open and 126 pound novice.

* * *

Many boxing fans will journey out to the Knights of Columbus Building, Somerville, tomorrow night to take in the amateur show of the Dilboy Post, V. F. W. Commander Gene Driscoll and his buddies have invited Jack Dempsey to attend, if only for a moment.

* * *

[illegible] Portland, Me., Eddie [illegible] of Dover will oppose Jimmie Smith of Brockton in the feature bout. Tiger McGunnigle of Portland will mix with Cannonball Cote of Lewiston, Happy Marston of Bar Harbor will meet Omar Chapman of Lewiston, and Luke Leonard of Biddeford tackles Young Bernier of Lewiston in the preliminaries.

* * *

Tansey Norton has returned from a long trip through the Middle West and is training daily with "Scoops" [illegible] the Black Tiger from Worcester. He now feels fit to enter [illegible] weight in these parts.

* * *

The South End A. A. have completed arrangements for an amateur [illegible] at the South End [illegible] Berkeley street and Warren avenue on Monday evening, November 24. There will be four classes contested for in the open division, namely, 112, 126, 135 and heavyweight class.

* * *

Johnny Andrews would like to know why none of the local lightweights care to meet him. Perhaps it's because he has won 24 out of [illegible] contests.

HINTS AND RECIPES

N[illegible] ever seen [illegible] WHY [illegible] olive. It grows [illegible] nowhere else in the [illegible] but not even [illegible] of producing this [illegible]

[illegible] grows on a patch [illegible] miles square. [illegible] and green olives [illegible] fine texture and [illegible] large size—nor will they [illegible] wonderful flavor which [illegible] famous. Why? [illegible] of nature, some peculiar [illegible] of soil and burning sun [illegible] have been ad[illegible] nature alone [illegible] secret, and she has [illegible]

[illegible] however that olives [illegible] appetizers and there [illegible] from soup to codfish [illegible] do not improve

A FEW POINTERS.

I want to give you some [illegible] facts about green olives [illegible] few people know

[illegible] olives should be chilled in [illegible] bottle in the [illegible] next to ice. Keep [illegible] olives tightly corked in bottle. Do not expose them to the [illegible] than is absolutely necessary. Exposure robs them of their [illegible] piquant flavor.

[illegible] green olives stand in a [illegible] on the table a long time before [illegible] with or without cracked ice [illegible] the flavor. As with a[illegible] a silver fork or spoon [illegible] used. But the olives and [illegible] should always be [illegible] or glass [illegible]

To keep green olives after the [illegible] cork has been removed from [illegible] the liquor should be poured [illegible] and saved for use [illegible] olives [illegible] Put [illegible] the original bottle and [illegible] over them. From one [illegible] tablespoons of [illegible] should be added to liquor in bottle [illegible]

To stone an olive, use a sharp [illegible] knife [illegible] the [illegible] same motion you would [illegible] an apple [illegible] to the pit. This leaves the [illegible] meat in one piece and it can be [illegible] back [illegible] the effect of a whole olive. Or if you [illegible] stuffed olives may be used where chopped or sliced olives are required. The stuffed red peppers may be removed and used as a garnish or for other purposes.

OLIVE CLUB SANDWICHES.

Toast two slices of bread and remove [illegible] Butter slightly and cool then spread with heavy mayonnaise. On one slice of bread place hearts of lettuce leaves then spread with [illegible] green olives cut in rings. On the other portion of bread arrange slices of broiled bacon.

TOMATO GREEN OLIVE RICE

Put one [illegible] cup rice on to boil. Make a [illegible] sauce as follows:

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1 cup strained tomato juice or tomato pulp.

Melt butter, add flour, then tomato pulp and sugar. Boil two or three minutes, stirring constantly. Then grate [illegible] cup cheese [illegible] cup green olives into slices. When rice is cooked drain [illegible] serving dish. Pour over it hot tomato sauce and sprinkle [illegible] cheese and sliced green olives over top. Serve.

STUFFED TOMATOES SPANISH STYLE

- 4 medium sized tomatoes.
- ½ cup chopped green olives.
- 2 tablespoons [illegible] pulp
- 1 tablespoon bread crumbs
- ¼ cup minced chicken
- ½ cup soup stock
- 2 tablespoons butter or substitute.
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

[illegible] tomatoes, remove stem [illegible] Make sauce by [illegible] butter adding bread crumbs and soup stock [illegible] olives [illegible] Fill tomatoes [illegible] Sprinkle with few bread crumbs. Bake in [illegible] oven 25 minutes.

MEAT BALLS WITH GREEN OLIVE GRAVY.

- 1 pound beef, lamb or mutton.
- 4 medium sized onions.
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup cooked rice
- Few sprigs parsley
- ¼ teaspoon paprika.
- 1 cup chopped green olives.

Put meat [illegible] food chopper [illegible] and parsley [illegible] salt and paprika. Make into balls. Fry 10 minutes in [illegible] fat or any drippings you have on hand. Remove to [illegible] hot platter. Keep where hot. Add [illegible] to fat [illegible] pan [illegible] gravy [illegible] consistency. Bring the gravy to a boil for 3 or 4 minutes. Stir in the green olives. Pour [illegible] olive gravy over the cooked meat balls and serve.

SPANISH GREEN OLIVE DRESSING

- 1 cup mayonnaise.
- 2 sprays parsley, chopped.
- 1 stalk celery, diced fine.
- 12 green olives, finely chopped.
- 1 can pimento, chopped fine.
- 1 green pepper, chopped fine.
- ½ teaspoon chopped chives or a little onion juice

Serves six. Prepared in 15 minutes.

REM loosened his cough—he kept on loosening pipes

Damp cellars—dripping pipes—water splashing on him all day long—that's a plumber's life.

Is it any surprise that Mr. William G. Foster of 11 South 22nd St., Flushing, L. I., of the plumbing firm of Foster & Koch, contracted one of those hard-to-shake coughs in the course of his work?

But while Mr. Foster knows all there is to know about how to loosen a balky pipe, it was his sister that suggested how to loosen that cough, so Mr. Foster gives her the credit:

> "A plumber's work is in water most of the time and of course one gets coughs and colds from getting wet. About three weeks ago I had a pretty bad cough. I was coughing hard all night for a couple of nights and couldn't get to sleep. It was deep in my chest and I couldn't rid myself of the phlegm.
>
> "My sister saw REM advertised and said I'd better try it, so I went across the street to the Sanford Pharmacy and got a bottle. It loosened the cough right away and one bottle entirely stopped it."

So many who have tried REM speak of the quick relief it brings.

This quick action is largely due to a special ingredient — effective, harmless — not found in ordinary cough syrups. Clinging to your throat as it is swallowed, REM quickly begins its work of quieting your cough.

No Opiates in REM. And it's pleasant to take.

Ask your Druggist for REM—the blue package with the round orange label. If it doesn't help you, you can have your money back. Fair enough!

Introductory size bottle, only 60c
Economy size, $1.00

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

[illegible] Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute [illegible] The night he raised his hand to his [illegible] then rage she slipped from his home with her [illegible] Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several [illegible] finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora at 17 fell in love with Dane Herrick. Andrew's wife recovers and attacks him with a pistol. He says goodby to Nora Lee and gives her a packet of bonds. Andrew is killed in an auto accident, and his widow demands the bonds of Nora. Nora meets Maxwell Reed, who makes love to her. Margaret's cherished letters from Andrew disappear. Nora bids Dane goodby.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

S[illegible]

Margaret Dies

Nora Lee turned a face chalk-white with anguish and gripped the [illegible]

"This is your mother's night, Nora Lee. She will rally in an hour and may call for you. You may comfort her. Remember this: Be strong [illegible]"

Nora Lee bowed her head [illegible]

"[illegible] here. As long as [illegible] there is hope. You [illegible] mother tonight. You may [illegible]"

[illegible]

Nora Lee [illegible] the night [illegible] the [illegible] tears [illegible] down her cheeks. She had left Margaret on this last [illegible] had gone away and left her sitting in the garden. Perhaps [illegible] lonely, perhaps she had went, feeling her end was near. She must have longed for Nora Lee [illegible] have kept turning [illegible] wondering why she was so long. Perhaps she thought how [illegible]

Strangers' Hands

Now it seemed to her that Margaret's hand had [illegible] that [illegible] What these hours would [illegible] What [illegible]

[illegible]

Her [illegible] were raining now. She wiped them quickly and went stealing down the hall. Poor, lovely one struggling for her breath. She would rush in and comfort her—

Margaret's head lay back against the pillows, her mouth half open, the lips blue and straining with their shallow, panting breaths. Oh, those lips had lost their beauty and the face its quiet charm.

Nora Lee took a chair at the bed. She was frightened even as she had been years ago; afraid of her mother; afraid of the terror creeping in and stealing Margaret from her. And she wanted to run away—dash out of the house, fling herself into the hills—get away from this.

She dropped her head near Margaret's hand and whispered: "No—oh, mother, darling, I won't leave—oh, my dearest, dearest—"

Angulshed Waiting

It seemed weakness most terrible to sit here and let her mother go; to sit with bowed head and wait. If she might only crowd sweet life-giving air into Margaret's mouth. If she might only take Margaret's failing heart and pour her own young blood upon it; if she could put out fighting arms and keep away this final cruelty.

She kissed her mother's hands and felt their palms press softly to her [illegible]

[illegible] eyes opened, deep now and for a moment lighted with their love. Margaret's lips struggled with words she seemed determined to speak.

Nora Lee said. "I know you love [illegible]"

[illegible] whispered: "Leaving—[illegible]"

[illegible] Margaret's [illegible] rowing eyes. She even laughed: "Oh, you dear—you dear—" And she was glad that Margaret's lids dropped heavily—glad to be released from that piercing revelation of her mother's sublime and sacrifical love.

The Last Hour

And now her mother's last hour was an anguish because her thoughts would not abandon Nora Lee, because her spirit clung to a young girl who would be left alone.

Nora Lee sobbed. All Margaret's life had been struck to these aching bonds of renunciation. A lovely girl of twenty forced from her home, sent out into the night with a little baby in her arms. That baby was Nora Lee. Margaret had gone out carrying her burden. [illegible] she had raised her [illegible] and fought the world [illegible]

Margaret had given up love and [illegible] and even beauty—she who was so [illegible] for the gracious [illegible] of life she who could have [illegible] had become a [illegible] that needed her.

Images of Margaret carved sharp [illegible] in Nora Lee's mind [illegible] that day in Fairdale with her mother, white as a statue bidding Andrew farewell that night when they raced through the hills, and the hills went about them silent and brown and vast. Margaret dropped on her knees weeping, her arms about the child. "Sad? Why, we're not sad, my gypsy girl. How could I sorrow when I have you? Why, no."

It was only the touch of death that Winter in the snow; only the utter failing of her strength that had finally beaten Margaret down so that she took this great love Andrew offered.

Friendships Lost

Nora Lee knew now that it had always been half anguish. She could not take it bravely to the world. The one sweetness life had offered her, who was so beautiful, had been tarnished in this heartshattering way.

Her mother had to hide herself in this lonely cottage; she had to forego friendships like some outcast. And she had lived in torment even of the day when her child would judge her. That tragic day had come.

Nora Lee could slay herself now, recalling the hour when Margaret's hand had trembled so; when Margaret's lips had deadened in their pain. Those harrowing weeks when Andrew didn't come and Margaret grew so pale; when finally she said, "Yes, you have judged me, Nora Lee!"

Nora Lee wound her hands on her mother's arm. She would make up for that hardness. She would bring a thousand joys to Margaret. It occurred to her that Margaret would be pleased; Margaret would cherish eternally the memory of her triumph. She must tell her about the magazine and the little article. She must run and get it.

But as she stood up with this abrupt thought, Margaret's hand pressed imploringly: "Stay—stay—"

"Why—do you think I'm leaving?"

The dear eyes were seeking hers. She stooped down and kissed them. She brushed the soft, damp hair from Margaret's forehead. She would wait until tomorrow; wait until her mother were more rested.

"He won't eat, Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby sadly.

I lifted up the saucer and smelt the milk. Then I tasted it. The milk was sour.

"Bring some fresh milk, Bobby," said I. And Bobby was back in a jiffy with a saucer of fresh milk.

The squirrel put his little nose into the fresh milk and I want to tell you he drank that milk until his little sides were puffed out like a fat puppy's.

"There," said I. "That's an important thing to remember with pets, Bobby. Always be sure that their milk is fresh."

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am [illegible] to a [illegible] who is in [illegible] known him for [illegible]

My parents are [illegible] ated and I go to business [illegible] ents are aware of [illegible] young man [illegible] that I reciprocate his love. Nevertheless, my mother has done everything in her power to make me give him up, saying that a young man who has not [illegible] three will [illegible] hold no other grievance against him, as he is a fine, clean-cut American.

Shall I give him up and marry someone [illegible] ished as my [illegible] shall I [illegible] for [illegible] simply make [illegible]

DON'T marry a man [illegible] love. I [illegible] would not [illegible] for you. Wait for a [illegible] for your Tom [illegible] to make good. [illegible] mother [illegible] him. Just remain good [illegible]

Since you love each other and are young, both can afford to wait. Two years waiting would give [illegible] friend a chance to make good and win your parents' regard and approval.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A year ago I met a girl in our neighborhood and grew to love her. And she told me she loved me. Before very long her family moved away and she went with them.

We wrote letters to each other for a while. Then, about a month ago, she asked me not to write any more to her [illegible] She said I might write her [illegible] friend's letters. I asked her whether there was [illegible] but she said she didn't [illegible]

Shall I drop her [illegible] or shall I write her just as a friend? I love her very [illegible] Her mother and father approve of me. Please tell me how I can win back her love.

A. D.

WHY not write the young woman just what you feel? If you love her and are in a position to make a home for her, ask her to be your wife. Ask whether she does not feel that in time [illegible] learn to love you.

She may have the idea that you are writing serious things to her without a serious thought in your heart. It can do no harm to let her know how you really feel about her. Then, at least, she will be convinced that you are sincere.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Iron Bonds, by Jack Woodford

SINCE Mrs. Manson's death Ma[illegible] remained on as Mr Manson's [illegible]. But apparently [illegible] had come [illegible] Mrs. Manson's [illegible], the [illegible] to leave on [illegible] which would leave Mr. Manson and Mathilda Jenks [illegible] the house together for [illegible]. Mr Manson was [illegible] get another house[illegible] sleep there and Mr. Manson [illegible], the [illegible] data did not re[illegible] an office other than [illegible]

[illegible] ten years Miss Jenks [illegible] Mr Manson's secretary. [illegible] that time they had both [illegible] hammered out the most [illegible]sing pair of iron bands [illegible] human beings had been [illegible]. It began at the time [illegible] Miss Jenks first came to work for Mr Manson, when she was 23 years of age. It had occurred to Mr Manson the day he hired her that [illegible] a well, not really [illegible] young lady into his [illegible] was a rather risky thing [illegible] that [illegible] merely [illegible] of what people might say.

He Needed Her

But as he talked to her [illegible] that she was exactly the sort of girl he needed for his secretary, and the realization came over him that he was going to engage her, he had contracted mentally, drawn into a cool, steely reserve to impress her at the very start with the fa[illegible] she was and never [illegible] stretch [illegible] to him [illegible] way.

And [illegible] secretary [illegible] home [illegible] was [illegible] and desired only to learn, make a good living, have a roof over her head and have plenty to eat.

For early Mathilde had realized that she was [illegible] be a matrimonial [illegible] was not pretty [illegible] but it was [illegible] which [illegible] seldom shows [illegible] ments when [illegible] flashed [illegible] a way as to start the [illegible].

Through the Years

And through the years, while Mrs. Manson was [illegible] Mr. Manson had [illegible] eyes, and she [illegible] something which begins [illegible]ation and ends. Instantly [illegible] observing this feeling, both [illegible]—both the soul of honor—had immediately looked to the bands. With the result that Manson had always spoken to his secretary with a coolness amounting to almost curtness, and she had replied with an impersonal edge to her voice which amounted almost to blight.

Turned to Her

Strangers, not understanding the situation, would have said that they hated each other, if the strangers had happened to be psychologists, however.

Mathilda answered Mr. Manson's bell with the same brisk efficiency with which she had answered it for the past ten years. When she reached his study, he had apparently forgotten having rung for her, and was relaxed in his chair, gazing out through the window absently. A swift finger of ice searched Mathilda's heart. Her face softened as she glimpsed her employer's handsome face turned sideways toward her, softened to an expression of easy dreaminess. The soft, iron gray of his hair made a fitting crown for the well shaped head, and the high, intellectual forehead.

"You rang, sir?" said Mathilda incisively.

"Yes, Miss Jenks." he turned toward her; the blood rushed to his face, and then fled, leaving him white to the lips. He had intended to tell her—but he could not. His eyes took in the soft lines of her still youthful figure, the clear white of her delicate skin, and the azure blue of her eyes. He noted with a little inward thrill that her hair was still as brown and as soft as the first day she had sat down at his desk, pad in hand, and [illegible] her head so [illegible] he felt light, fluffy strands of her hair upon his chin. He had intended to tell her—but it was impossible. Their attitude toward each other was that of people who had once had a bad quarrel, and who had spoken cooly ever since. He made another ineffectual effort to burst the iron band, the blood rushed with a prickly leap to his scalp; and then fled, leaving him cold—the words would not come. After ten years it was impossible to adopt a new tone toward her. She would resent it, would answer coolly and impersonally, and this would be frightful—it would embarrass him as nothing else possibly could.

"It is unfortunate, Miss Jenks, that my old housekeeper is leaving today. I have been unable to engage another one who can sleep in the house. I have a woman coming tomorrow, but her hours are to be from 9 to 5, and she is to go home after that. So, you see, unpleasant as it may be, because of the look of the thing . . ."

Still Want Her

"You will still want me for your work, that is, during the day?" asked Miss Jenks, crisply. She wondered that her voice could remain icy and impersonal when chaos was [illegible] her breast. Her eyes traveled past him through the window [illegible] outside—the garden which had once been Mrs. Manson's and which she had taken care of, after the lady's death, [illegible]

Very Kind

She thought of the [illegible] of the roses which floated up to her bed room window, just above, at night, when she lay there, her music removed, thinking of Mr. Manson, wondering if he would ever speak.

"I shall, of course, engage a room nearby, sir, and manage to get my meals out somewhere. I shall not let this unfortunate occurrence interfere with the work, sir." Unfortunate occurrence indeed—the end of everything—the pleasant little room upstairs—she, off alone, in an unfriendly hired room. Mr. Manson alone, in the big house—alone! A mighty urge swept through her. She stepped forward, toward him. He sensed something in the air and [illegible] toward her and then into both their faces crept the chill iron.

"That is very kind of you," replied Mr. Manson in the old employer-to-secretary voice. "I shall, of course, increase your salary at once to make up for the additional expense you will have. As I said before, it is—er, unfortunate." He thought of her in a strange house, and of the knowledge which would come to him, on the first night she left, that the cozy little room across the hall would be empty—empty. The whole house would be empty. A lump came into his throat. He struggled with the iron band again but it held him.

"Is that all now, sir?" She clenched her fists and stood erect, breathing a short prayer. He threw himself, with all his weight mentally against the iron band. But it would not break—the fear of her replying to words of endearment in that cool, impersonal tone was too great. If he were to tell her that he loved her, and loved her since the first time he had seen her since the first to reply "Sir" in that icy, secretarial voice, he could never look her in the face again—the risk was too great.

After a Pause

"Yes," he said, after a pause, "that—is—all." He swung around with his back to her, and faced his desk. Before him was a picture of his wife, in a little silver frame. He happened to glance at the picture, and the hair upon his head seemed to creep; his heart stopped, and then started again started again with a [illegible] reflected upon the glass of the picture he had seen [illegible] the door and hold out [illegible] toward him!

Whirling about, he stood a moment aghast.

"Mathilde!" he pronounced, in a [illegible] that shook with emotion.

"Mr. Manson—John!" she replied in a little weak, shaking voice! She took a step forward, and he took three—and the iron bands burst and fell with an almost audible clanking at their feet.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

By Sol Vitt

HERE is a twister worthy of your best efforts, puzzle fans. It isn't long or hard but it's tantalizing. One little word may stump you for a long time, so particular care should be given the up er right hand corner. If you haven't it solved by tomorrow's paper we'll print a "tip" which will close up that corner for you.

Here is the promised "tip" on yesterday's puzzle: No. 12 Horizontal—"A water vessel"—is Sea, and No. 7 Vertical—"Drag"—is Tow.

See what you can do with today's puzzler. The synonyms are printed below. Can you do it in 35 minutes?

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE British government is having a hard job holding on to their lighthouse keepers in the South Seas. They no sooner hire a man than the cannibals come along and eat him.

ENGLAND lost three men this way in less than a month and the cannibals are still hungry.

A CANNIBAL can take the toughest guy in the world and boil him until he's tender.

WHEN it comes to lighthouse keepers, they eat them faster than the government can hire them.

WHEN they capture one of these fellows they eat everything except his hat.

SO far they haven't discovered a way to cook a derby.

THE average man will last a cannibal about six days unless they eat between meals.

OF course, they'll eat any kind of a human being, but lighthouse keepers make the best sandwiches.

THE British government is having a hard time filling the job, as no man likes to lie down between two pieces of bread.

IN fact he hates to be used as a table delicacy of any sort.

THE dinner hour appeals to any man, but not when he's the dinner.

AND he isn't crazy about being used for breakfast or lunch either.

SOMETIMES he is eaten as a roast and then again he's served on the half shell.

ONE of the cannibal's favorite dishes is "lighthouse keeper a la king."

THE fellow whom they eat has one consolation. He doesn't have to wash the dishes when they get through.

THE cannibals have petitioned the British government for more lighthouse keepers. Keepers are so scarce lately that the South Sea Island families haven't been eating regularly.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney,

Boston Health Commissioner.

NERVOUS people have much difficulty at times in managing themselves.

They are more likely to manage themselves successfully than are more evenly balanced people because they have keener sensibilities that enable them early to detect what is wrong and to correct it in time to prevent disaster.

Dr. Mahoney

But even at that they find themselves overtaken by fatigue or depressed by trifles or, at times, they have vague physical discomforts with a tendency to eye pains and headaches.

They generally know beforehand when they are going to experience something of this kind, because these unpleasant conditions are prone to come as reactions from exhilaration or over-excitement that may be manifested in either too much work or too much dissipation.

The thing to do is to nip the reaction in the bud.

Go to bed early and stay in bed as late as you can the next morning. If you can spend a whole week-end in bed the better.

Get all the sleep you can. To do this have the shades down so the morning light will not disturb you. Remember that the morning light striking our closed eyes is the stimulus that frequently arouses us from slumbers that we would like to have continued for an hour or more longer.

And that's the key to the whole of these little short "rest cures."

You need repose to stop the expenditure of energy. You need darkness and quietude to rest all your naturally overkeen senses. You need solitude to save you from the drafts that other people make upon your vitality.

Eat plenty, sleep well, don't worry and be sure constipation does not trouble you.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

I have a boy of five who gets bronchial attacks in Winter. Would you advise that he wear woolen underwear? MRS. H. N.

I can certainly advise woolen underwear for your child. Be sure, however, not to buy the extremely heavy type. It is possible for a child to be too warmly dressed, as regards underwear.

Please send me the name of a good specialist on babies. MRS. E.
Boston.

I would suggest that you take your child to the Infants' Hospital, on Van Dyke St., or the Children's Hospital, 300 Longwood Ave., for treatment. We do not furnish the names of specialists.

Please recommend a specialist for my eyes? MRS. F.
Newport, R. I.

We do not recommend the names of any specialists. I would suggest that you go to your local eye hospital and consult a specialist, or ask them for a list of specialists in private work.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

I have just come from a restaurant where usually the service is excellent. But this time I first had to ask the bus boy for bread. Next I had to call for butter. Later I had to talk up before I was served with a glass of water.

Finally, I asked the waiter, "What's the matter with your bus boy?"

"Funny thing," he explained; "this boy—he's Spanish—was all right until Firpo was licked. Since then he hasn't been worth a continental."

At last week's annual banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce, director of the federal budget, General Lord made a long speech which bristled with figures running into the billions. Never once did he look at a note, but went ahead calling off a string of statistics from memory, giving each sum down to the last cent. The enormous audience, consisting mainly of representative business men, broke into applause in admiration of his amazing faculty for carrying such exact details in his head.

* * *

I once asked James J. Hill how he contrived to cultivate the unique memory he possessed, probably the best memory of any man of his day. His reply was, "it is easy enough to remember things you are interested in."

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has perhaps the greatest business memory of any man in America today. When I asked him his recipe for memory-building, he explained that he never asked his brain cells to record and retain data of no earthly use to him, such as the records of different baseball players or race horses or anything equally useless to him. He modestly added that he left room in his mind for facts and figures helpful to him in handling his duties.

Coming to work of a morning, I have often noticed in the train a young banker who invariably turns from the front page of his newspaper to the sporting pages. And when he has happened to sit near me I have frequently heard him discuss sports, but I do not recall ever having heard him talk over anything of practical interest or value to a conscientious man interested in finance and business.

* * *

I know another young banker who puts in five or six evenings every week studiously striving to equip himself to progress in his profession. Some time ago this banker was voted an increase of $25,000 a year in his salary.

NEW ENGLAND'S NEEDS TOLD BY LAWRENCE

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

John S. Lawrence of Lawrence & Co., Boston, also chairman of the All New England Week Committee, in an address today before the stockholders of the Federal Reserve Bank asked himself the very timely question: "How can New England compete with other sections in the very long run unless we can develop our natural resources into something tangible to counteract New England handicaps?"

Mr. Lawrence's remarks are deserving of the sort of study that brings about action.

He went on to say:

WE WASTE TIME.

"We must use the value of our charming home life, education, hardy people, a large goodwill throughout the United States and the world, and a deserved reputation for honesty, quality and integrity. Our assets must be stimulated and used in some concrete manner if we are to prosper.

"I will be specific.

1. Just think of the wasted energy in New England, not only our water power, but in our people. We do not work together. We waste time, and energy, in lack of co-operation. A partial reduction in this loss of human energy will go a great way towards solving our troubles. Take our railroads. We need a policy. We will not all agree that it is the best but we should settle it and give it popular support. No railroad manager can operate his railroad without the support of his patrons overlooking small matters in the accomplishment of the more essential.

2. We are not supporting each other, not even in our own projects. Previous to New England Week few towns featured their own products, many did not even know what the town or city produced, many of our products were more appreciated outside of New England than in New England.

"An investigation last Spring indicated that there was only one shop in Brockton carrying Brockton shoes and not a single yard of New Bedford textiles were for sale in New Bedford, nor Fall River textiles in Fall River. You could not get Lawrence woolen goods in Lawrence.

"Three years ago you could not have gotten Ipswich hosiery in Ipswich. Today the business there among the operators and their friends runs almost $100,000 a year.

DISPLAY OWN GOODS.

"During New England Week local products were displayed in New Bedford and the New Bedford Dry Goods Co. sold $12,000 worth of Wamsutta sheeting in one week. One of the leading department stores of Boston bought $27,000 worth of New England goods for New England Week which would not otherwise have been bought.

"During New England Week over 3,500 citizens of the city of Nashua, N. H., visited the Nashau mills—they never before had been in the factory. The impression of the public regarding the mill has wholly changed now that they have seen the pleasant surroundings and good facilities for operation, and they have begun to realize the importance of the industry to the town.

"We need another New England Week. We need many. We do not ask that New England goods only be displayed in New England, but we do ask that we get acquainted with New England goods of quality. If we cannot use our own products, how can we ask others to use them? We should be the first, not the last, to use our own products.

"III. Our own interests require that we be cheerful, encouraging, helpful, rather than growling and kicking. This attitude of mind was helped through New England Week. A little Coue-ism is sorely needed. We can. We can. We will. Forget the cannot.

"IV. The attitude of the press in New England, the United States and abroad towards New England can be developed upon constructive lines. This has been demonstrated many times in other sections less deserving.

"V. We must sell New England first to ourselves. We can then sell it and its products to others. This is not impossible and probably not difficult.

"VI. We must exercise our duty as stockholders, noteholders or bond holders or as trustees in the selection of capable and fit men to direct our New England industries.

"VII. We also need a good economic study of New England—imports, exports, production, markets, etc. Over 7,000,000 people live here forming the nucleus of an important domestic demand. This field is almost uncharted."

CAR LOADINGS FOR YEAR ARE ERRATIC

The latest weekly figures on car loadings throw little light on the curve of freight business, which is watched closely at this time every year for the downward turn. A plotting of the traffic curve for 1924, moreover, shows such unusual results that there is more than ordinary reason to scrutinize the weekly loading figures closely. Never in recent years has the comparison of these reports produced as many abrupt changes as in the last ten months.

QUOTATIONS MIXED IN GRAIN FUTURES

Quotations were mixed in Chicago grain futures. Prices: Wheat—Dec. 152¾ to ⅝; May 159⅞ to 160¼; July 140¼. Corn—Dec. 115⅝ to ¼. May 121⅞ to 122¼; July 123 to ⅛. Oats—Dec. 54⅛ to ¼; May 59⅛ to ¼; July 57½ to ⅝.

QUOTATIONS HIGHER IN COTTON FUTURES

Quotations were higher in New York cotton futures. Prices: December 24.40, up .14; January 24.57, up .12; March 24.89, up .09; May 25.30, up .17.

Great Falls Mfg. Company

After a complete shutdown for ten weeks, Great Falls Manufacturing Company of Somersworth, N. H., has started work in preparatory departments. Improvement in cotton textiles since election is the reason.

SOUTHERN PINE OUTPUT IS AT 5 YEARS' TOP

That the annual output of Southern Pine lumber and timber today at least equals, and probably exceeds, the cut of five years ago, is disclosed in a preliminary statement just issued by the Southern Pine Association on production of Southern pine since 1919.

STEEL AT HIGH MARK FOR 5 YEARS

U. S. Steel sold at a new high for five years in Wall Street today, when bullish trading was resumed on a very lively scale that later led the market to show recessions at many points.

American Can was boosted 4⅝ to 155½. Among over 50 issues to break through their previous 1924 highs included Sears Roebuck, Montgomery-Ward, H. R. Mallinson, May Department Stores, Famous Players, Mack Trucks, Maxwell Motors B, Radio Corporation, North American, International Telephone & Telegraph, United Cigars, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, Northern Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Frisco common and St. Louis Southwestern.

Transfer of blocks of 1,000 shares or more was common, especially in issues seldom active except in periods and specialties were the leaders.

Nash Motors jumped 6¼ points, Columbia Carbon 5, Sears Roebuck 1¾. Willis Overland preferred and May Department Stores each sold 3 points above Tuesday's final figures.

General Electric, which broke 4 points, and Katy preferred, off 3, were the only conspicuous heavy spots. Marking up of the renewal rate on call money to 2½ per cent. apparently was without effect on the price movement.

In Boston Stock Exchange trading, the afternoon saw most changes on the downward side, though largely confined to fractions. Mohawk receded a point. There was a more quiet tone than for days.

Boston Notes

CITIZENS National Bank declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 share, payable December 15.

IT IS debatable whether speculation now raging in Wall Street has not far outstripped any improvement to come in business for some time.

LIQUIDATION of Liberty Bonds by banks and other large institutions, which have been shifting investment funds into higher yielding securities, has resulted in average decline of $1 on each $100 lien since election.

QUICK IMPROVEMENT in business created by election outcome and resultant boom in stock market has been demonstrated by series of favorable dividend announcements of last fortnight.

Liberty Bond Prices

Liberty bond prices were: 3½s, 100.16; first 4s, 101.12 bid; second 4s, 100.30 bid; first 4¼s, 101.8; second 4¼s, 101.1; third 4¼s, 101.11; fourth 4¼s, 101.31; treasury 4¼s, 105.13.

SPECULATORS PRONOUNCED RADIO MAD

Excited buying of radio shares suggested the wild days of the bull market of 1919, when oil stocks were the favorites and it needed only the slightest circulation of a "tip" to set the marker for a particular stock a-boiling.

For several days Radio shares have been touted as the next spectacular feature and, apparently, Monday's rise convinced the doubting Thomases that there was something to the tip after all, which accounts for some measure of yesterday's rather unusual scramble to get aboard.

Nor did the sharp rise in the early hours of trading dampen enthusiasm a single bit; indeed, the demand increased as the day progressed, and at the close Radio Corporation new stock on the "big board" stood almost eight points higher than it did Monday afternoon and 13 points higher than at the close on Saturday.

The strength spread to other radio shares, most of which are traded in on the curb, making the day, all in all, a tremendous one for the newest of the industries.

Wall St. Gossip

NILES-BENNETT-POND directors passed quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on preferred, due at this time, paid since 1899.

CRANE CO. declared an extra of 1 per cent. and regular quarterly 1¼ per cent. on common, payable Jan. 16.

STEEL common moved in response to fact that the country's steel mills are now operating close to 70 per cent., highest since spring.

PUBLIC SERVICE Corporation of New Jersey reports surplus after charges of $7,321,945 for year ended Oct. 31 compared with $5,160,077 in preceding year.

NET PROFITS of $539,345 reported by the Hayes Wheel Co. for nine months ended Sept. 30 is equal after preferred dividends to $2.64 a share on common stock in comparison with $5.12 a share in same 1923 period.

CHICAGO BOARD TO START COTTON MART

To Operate Mills

Devon Mills, Inc., has been incorporated under laws of Massachusetts with capital of 100 shares of no par to operate Rotch Mills of New Bedford for Fisk Rubber Company and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, which recently purchased mill for about $2,000,000.

MOTOR NEWS

Henshaw Celebrates Tenth Anniversay of Dodge Brothers Cars in Boston

One hundred years ago the first railroad in the United States was started. Ten years ago the first Dodge Brothers Motor Car made its appearance. Both were the result of a transportation need.

The first railroad, which was constructed in 1826 at Quincy, Mass., was a beginning that opened up the vast territory of this country and linked up widely separated parts. The first Dodge Brothers car, the predecessor of more than a million brought economical, reliable and comfortable personal transportation within the reach of the great American public.

The decennial of the arrival in Boston of the first Dodge Brothers cars is properly marked by an unusually elaborate celebration by the Henshaw Motor Company, which has been the dealer in Boston continuously for the full decade. The observance of this tenth anniversary was begun Saturday in the Henshaw Building on Commonwealth avenue and will continue every day this week. Its chief feature is an exhibition of cars that is one of the most interesting and carefully arranged displays ever staged by any dealer in the East. That the public realizes the significance of the event is indicated by the large attendance at the opening last Saturday.

Nash Plants Work Night and Day

November will set another new Nash sales record, according to every early indication. Continued demand for the new Nash has left the factory oversold ever since the announcement August 1.

"This will be the greatest November in the history of the Nash Motors Company and a very close second, in point of sales, to the month of October, which had the greatest business ever recorded by Nash," said C. T. Rockwell, New England distributor of Nash cars.

Night shifts were put on at the Advanced Six factory in Kenosha within a few days after the announcement of the new line; two weeks later the Milwaukee plant, where the Special Six is built, also put on a night shift, and about the same time the plant of Seamon Body Corporation, which builds Nash enclosed bodies exclusively, was operated night and day.

BOSTON & MAINE BUS COMPANY INCORPORATED

Boston & Maine Transportation Company has formally filed its papers for incorporation at the State House with capital of $100,000 of $100 par stock. The purpose of the corporation as stated in the articles is to maintain and operate motor vehicles for transportation of passenger, baggage, freight, mail, express, etc., in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York.

The incorporators are Howard F. Fritch of Newton former Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway official; Frank I. Hardy of Melrose and Edward J. Gallagher of Boston.

Lexington Marvel Again Performs

John S. Dowd, manager of the Lexington Automobile Company on Commonwealth avenue, has been showing a number of prospects the new 1925 Pikes Peak Champion. He claims the Lexington demonstrator which has gone 16,000 miles will climb any hill from a standing start in high gear, and the speed can be reduced to five miles an hour and picked up to thirty-five miles an hour without changing gears on the hill.

A prominent clergyman took a demonstration one day last week and told Mr. Dowd that he would take him to a hill on which he was sure the Lexington could not perform. After riding a while Mr. Dowd inquired as to how far they were from the hill and to his great surprise the clergyman told him they had already gone over the hill.

Rollin Popularity Increases Daily

"Great as has been the improvement in business conditions over the lethargy which characterized the early Summer months, it alone does not begin to account for the increase in Rollin popularity," states William Haskell, president of [illegible] Company of Boston.

"It is mainly that the thousands of Rollins in wide-world use have proven the entire practicability of the car to everyone—even those cautious ones who waited.

"Quite recently and almost overnight, people all over the country started buying cars. Of course, the Rollin, a remarkably fine car at an even more remarkably moderate price, is getting a mighty good share of the business."

MR. OBERG WRITES:
In reply to a letter of inquiry: "Roxbury, Nov. 8, '24. Dear Sir:—I received your letter and am only too glad to answer it. I do not know whether you have the same trouble I had, or not. I had pains all over my body at first and after two or three days the pains and swelling settled in the left knee. My knee was swollen three times its natural size. I went to a certain hospital (I will not mention the name), and it did me no good. I came home from the hospital on crutches, but did hate to use them, so used a cane instead. Well, after my first Osmo-Chemic treatment I felt the greatest relief and could walk so much better, of course, with the cane. I am now feeling fine. The pain and swelling have gone, and I can walk fine, and am working every day. I hope you will give this treatment a trial, as it certainly helped me. I wish you would write me and let me know how you get along. Yours truly, Emanuel Oberg, 44 Forest St., Roxbury."
The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that it is accomplishing wonderful results in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE.

Look on the Windshield for Certificate

Every used car advertised on this page has undergone a rigid inspection. The Boston American employs expert mechanics to make these tests.

Only an "INSPECTED" car can receive the blue certificate of inspection. It is your protection and safeguard.

If you do not see the blue Certificate on the windshield of the car you want to buy, ask the dealer to have an inspection made, by telephoning the Boston American, Liberty 4000. No charge nor obligation.

Cars which pass our inspection are, of course, the good cars. Thus, the list below contains the pick of the USED CAR market in Boston. All types of cars, at all prices, and all inspected.

The Boston American will help you select a Used Car Bargain at just the price you can afford to pay.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—November 19, 1924

A paper for the family—Reliable, entertaining, fearless.

Mr. Wilbur, You Have Yet Time to Avert Battleship Sinking

Every American will wish success to the legal steps being taken by American citizens in Washington to halt the sinking of the $35,000,000 American battleship Washington. This magnificent vessel, the pride of the American navy, is being towed through an icy Atlantic sea to some location off the Virginia capes, where she is to be sunk by bombing airplanes and floating mines—target practice for the navy.

Of course, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur can still wireless his fleet commander to have the Washington sent back to the Philadelphia Navy Yard. He may realize in time the extent to which public indignation will swell if he persists in the destruction of this property of American citizens.

Whether or not Secretary Wilbur acts in time, or can be forced to act in time, this hasty and premature sinking of a unit in our first line of defence will cause a country-wide discussion of the real status of the American navy. However, it should not be necessary to throw away $35,000,000 to create public interest in this most vital public concern.

It is not necessary. We promise the Secretary of the Navy that even if the Washington is saved, the country is going to know the truth. It is going to learn what all naval men know, that we were ''sold out'' at the Washington conference where the so-called Naval Disarmament Treaty was made.

There, in the early days of 1922, Secretary of State Hughes took control of the American navy out of the hands of the naval experts who had managed it since the country was founded. In the interest not of America, but of other countries who wanted to destroy our naval superiority, he drew his red pencil through the recommendations of the general board of the navy and the naval experts designated to advise him. Thinking that he was bargaining for an American navy equal to Britain's and superior to Japan's, he signed a document which gave us a navy which in many respects is below Japan's. We were first when he took us into the conference. We were third when he brought us out.

A single instance, confirmed by official documents, will illustrate. The Naval War College at Newport knows that Great Britain has twenty-two battleships which can fire 24,000 yards, over thirteen and a half miles. We have five battleships whose guns have that range. In a fleet conflict only five of our ships could ever come into action; the others would be destroyed before they got within range—just as, other things being equal, the boxer with the longer reach easily defeats his opponent.

Congress appropriated $6,500,000 to elevate our guns and increase their range to 24,000 yards. The British Ambassador told Secretary Hughes that this was in conflict with the disarmament treaty and the Secretary believed him, accepted his view, though the technical experts of the navy refuted it.

Friends of the navy in Congress propose to pass this gun-elevation appropriation again. Our naval inferiority is so obvious and so in conflict with the spirit and intent and letter of the disarmament treaty that neither the Washington nor any other vessel should be sunk until this wrong is righted.

We need to take the navy out of the hands of the State Department and put it back in the hands where it belongs.

Meanwhile, Mr. Secretary of the Navy, save the Washington.

Miss Emma Has Tried It

And, Please Believe Us, She's Through

Miss Emma Goldman, very well educated, intelligent, determined and sincere, spent her youth telling the working people of this country that they ought to rise, ''having nothing to lose but their chains, and nothing to gain but freedom,'' throw off those chains and ESTABLISH GENUINE COMMUNISM.

This writer, as a young reporter for Charles A. Dana, reported some of her fiery speeches. They sizzled. Now, grown older, Emma Goldman has BEEN to Russia, has come IN CONTACT with communism, not theoretical, but REAL. She is in London now a changed lady, telling the crowd ''it is easy to destroy, hard to build up.''

Many things are imperfect in what we are pleased to call civilization. But it's a wonderful thing to have your hot milk and coffee every morning regularly, to find your street car running and the boss with the money ready at the week end.

Tearing these things down or blowing them up should be done with great caution. Emma Goldman knows it because she has seen people try it. Nothing but ''seeing'' would have been believing with her.

HOW respectable plutocracy used to HATE Emma Goldman.

HOW it will now receive and embrace her. She was thrown out of the country. She will be welcomed back, and if she likes terrapin or the bubbles in bootleg champagne, she can have plenty of both—now that she's a CHANGED WOMAN.

Home Brew, Ad Lib?

Probably Not

If the decision of Judge Soper, in Baltimore, stands you may grow grapes and apples, make and drink your wine or cider. Mr. Volstead's ''half of one per cent.'' does not apply to home-made products. And prohibition cannot stop you unless Government can actually prove that what you are drinking is actually intoxicating.

However, prohibition sentiment is powerful and some way probably will be found to interfere with the home-made product.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE are only two women who ever really stir a man's imagination—his "Might-have been" and his "Going-to-be."

* * *

Helen Rowland

After a woman has gone down for the third time in matrimony, it takes more than a pulmotor to restore her faith in men and bring her heart back to the norm.

* * *

Sometimes a bachelor decides to marry, because he discovers that feeding a family is no more expensive than feeding a beauty chorus.

* * *

Again, a man prefers musical comedy to grand opera, probably for the same reason that he prefers a woman he enjoys LOOKING at, to one to whom he has to LISTEN.

* * *

Sometimes a man's love dies of starvation and sometimes of suffocation; but mostly, it just goes into a gradual decline from a weak constitution.

* * *

The 'peacemaker'' is usually the dear, little spoil-sport, who comes in and tries to "Pollyanna" you just as you are winning the fight.

* * *

You can manage to live happily with the average man, if you can just go on patiently long enough for his "advice" to give out.

* * *

Nothing so confirms a cynic in his opinion that the world is growing worse instead of betetr, as the spectacle of a sane, intelligent girl calmly going back to corsets and cultivating the new "waistline."

* * *

When a man decides that a woman is "driving him to the devil," he always feels that it is a case of 'noblesse oblige'' for him to go right out and prove it.

* * *

The sweetness and nobility with which one woman sometimes surrenders her husband to another woman is just that generous impulse we all have to give away something for which we have no further use.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHAT wonders have been wrought by man through ages past and gone, what marvels since he first began his toil in time's dim dawn! How climbing up and up he went, goal after goal he won, yet labored, never quite content, his visions never done. For love and hate his blood he spilt, he conquered jungle foes; he dreamed, and pyramids were built; he planned, and Rome arose! And so with pride the monarch, man, goes climbing on his way; from savagery to tribe and clan, from chaos to today. Yet, though I marvel at his skill, his deeds on lands and seas, I find a greater marvel still in toiling honey-bees. Man has a spark divine from birth, a deathless soul for light; while these brief beings of the earth must flit from night to night. And yet with steadfast will they go to build each waxen cell, to fash'on streets, row after row, in cities where they dwell. They store their stolen sweets away, the sweets of pink and rose, and guard their treasure night and day, alert for all their foes. For hapless drone and working bee a lot that none can change, for queen and slave a destiny implacable and strange. What wonders bloom through art and will of man on lands and seas, yet more I marvel at the skill of patient honey-bees!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Charity is made the constant companion and perfection of all virtues, and well it is for that virtue where it most enters and longest stays.

* * *

Well is it known that ambition can creep as well as soar.

* * *

The only liberty is a liberty connected with order, that not only exists along with order and virtue, but which cannot exist at all without them.

* * *

Angry friendship is sometimes as bad as a calm enmity.

* * *

They who always labor can have no true judgment.

Helping Hand Editor:

I am asking if you can help me find someone who has a wheel chair or a comfortable old-fashioned chair with plenty seat room. If someone has either and would kindly give it to an old lady of seventy-five, who has been a cripple sixteen years and has sat in a chair that long, I would more than appreciate the favor.

Wants More Cloth

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you kindly thank the lady for sending me the pieces of cloth? I could not make out her name, so cannot thank her personally. If you can get me any more pieces I would like to have them, as I use them for spit cloths and around my body.

MRS. A. D.

Destitute Family

Helping Hand Editor:

I am writing in behalf of a very poor and destitute family. The father is a cripple for life and cannot take a step without a cane. There are five children, a girl, three, and boys, fourteen, twelve, eight and six years old. The mother is a frail little woman who does all she can. They are in need of clothing and bedding, and anything would be appreciated.

W. R.

Thanks From Mrs. P. V.

Helping Hand Editor:

Please thank the kind lady who sent us the clothing, so she will see that we appreciated it. I would have written to her personally, but could not spell out the name correctly.

In Need of Shoes

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you please help me out a little, as my husband is only working half time and we have had lots of sickness, three of us having had scarlet fever? I have three girls, thirteen, size 1 shoe; ten years, size 13½ shoe; seven years, size 12½ shoe, and a boy five years old, who wears size 8½ shoes. If some kind reader has any cast-off Winter coats their children are through wearing, underwear or shoes, I shall appreciate them very much. Also if someone had some shoes, size 6½, for myself, I would be thankful for them, but I am more particular about the children. Also, would you please try and get me some washing to do at home? I have two large pulley lines and a big sunny yard that is fine for clothes.

MRS. S.

Thanks to Mrs. J. H. B.

Helping Hand Editor:

Just a few lines to thank you for your kindness. I am also very grateful to Mrs. J. H. B., North Cambridge, for clothing she has given us, as it has been a great help to me at this time.

MRS. F. S. B.

Vet Needs Overcoat

Helping Hand Editor:

Could you please help a fellow out? I am at present in the hospital recovering from a recent illness. I am a World War vet and am in need of an overcoat, size 33, and a suit, 36 or 37. I cannot see any way of getting thesee at present. I would be very thankful to any kind reader who could supply me with these things.

Received Bundle

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you please thank C. E. C., Roxbury, Mass., for the bundle she sent me? I could have thanked her by letter, so she would be sure and know that I did so, but only these initials were on the package. I hope God will bless her, for she has done lots of good.

Westbrook, Me. MRS. J. W. S.

THE NAKED MAN CAN TRAVEL FAR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE Scotch have a proverb, ''The naked man goes far.'' The meaning of this is that the less you are encumbered, the more easily you can move.

People are sometimes at great pains to accumulate a lot of junk and are very proud of their possessions. But after awhile they find that what they own does little more than gratify their vanity and fix them in one place. They cannot move for fear of breaking something.

Experienced travelers say that the less baggage one has the easier it is to travel. Many an excursion has been foregone because it has been necessary to take along a lot of things and it was too much trouble.

The Latins used to call baggage by a very illustrative name. They called it ''impedimenta.'' Of course a certain amount of reserves and supplies are necessary for an army, but they are properly called ''impedimenta'' for they impede the course of the troops.

One of the advantages of being poor is that you do not have to stumble over a lot of things that belong to you.

A newspaper man once went from Chicago to Boston and back on a necessary trip. He took along no baggage, not even a change of linen. When his collar or shirt got dirty he threw it away and bought another one. He said in the long run it was cheaper than having washing done.

CORN HUSK AND FOX FUR PROPHECIES

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Noted Astronomer and Arbiter on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"We frequently read expressions like these, 'Farmers predict a hard Winter, as the fur of foxes this Fall is uncommonly heavy,' or 'The husks have grown thick on corn this year, so we may expect a cold Winter,' etc., etc. Do you believe that such signs are really prophetic, as if a universal consciousness were preparing the foxes and the corn for the coming cold?—W. E. R."

WE shall never hear the last of these weather proverbs because they are intrenched behind the universal love of the marvelous. Personally I should be sorry to see them vanish from folkfore, for they are practically harmless and very picturesque.

You may observe, also, that they reveal a desire to keep on the ground of reason, since they suggest a natural explanation for their own prophecies.

Of course, that explanation is based on a very risky, though not altogether illogical, assumption, viz., that vegetation and the lower animal world possess something resembling a primitive sense which puts them into accord with the earliest preparatory steps of inanimate nature when some abnormal departure from the ordinary course of the seasons is about to occur.

Natural history anecdotes abound in examples of apparent foresight of seasonal eccentricities, and even of temporary weather changes, manifested by the growth of plants, and the conduct of both wild and domesticated animals.

You will not easily dissuade many farmers that their pea hens, their geese, the tree toads in their orchards, or even the humble earthworms in their gardens, do not know a great deal more than they themselves do about coming wet or dry weather.

Science is bound to look with skepticism upon such things however strongly they may be attested by striking coincidences, because it is the business of science to beware of the deceptive character of coincidence, and to demand always a carefully tested chain of observations showing the connection of any extraordinary phenomenon with the usual course of nature. Such connection would be established in the case that we are dealing with if the supposed extraordinary sensitiveness of the plants and animals concerned were independently proved. But it is not proved.

It is true, however, that there are many puzzling, and suggestive facts in the lives of certain animals which might be used in an argument for the existence of a closer sympathy between them and natural phenomenon than exists with us. I could fill columns with stories, apparently well attested, that tend to support such an hypothesis.

But the matter has never been put to "the laboratory test," i.e., tried out on a strictly scientific method, and so we must continue to regard all such stories as "interesting if true," and I may add, interesting, anyhow, in many cases.

The southward flight of migratory birds taking place at an unusually early period in seasons when a premature winter is about to open; or the arrival of the birds in the north a week or more ahead of their customary time when a forerunning spring is approaching, are things that have been reported again and again.

Almost every observer of nature can recall instances of this kind, when, in the midst, perhaps, of a late snow squall, a sudden cheerful call of a bird that ought to be still a thousand miles farther toward the equator, reaches his surprised ear through the falling flakes; to be followed not many days after by a general return of the migrants, heralding an abnormal spring.

On the other hand, it is to be noticed that the farmers' and the hunters' predictions of early or unusually severe seasons, based on the behavior or other peculiarities of animals or plants are suggested in most cases only by local and individual observations and are seldom followed by a continued series of observations on a broad scale, calculated to establish a connection between the accidental observations and the character of the succeeding season.

It has happened that a farmer in one township or county has found his corn husks uncommonly thick and inferred that a severe Winter was coming, while a brother farmer in another county has seen no similar "signs" on his corn and has made no inference. If the severe Winter really came, one of the observers would say:

"Didn't I tell you so; the corn knowed it." But the other would say: "If I had only had a grouch on this cold Winter, I'd have been readier for it."

So with the foxes; they are cunning animals, but if they are to be regarded as trustworthy prophets of hard Winters their sponsors will have first to prove that foxes possess a secret Weather Bureau that can beat ours.

ONCE-OVERS

AN ENEMY CAN BE MORE VALUABLE THAN A FRIEND

Doubtless you have heard some of the things said about you behind your back.

And it does not set well on that same back.

There is just enough truth in the statements to make it doubly hard.

Exaggerated, to be sure, yet the facts show up pretty much as stated.

You have learned something about yourself from your enemies that your friends have known and recognized for some time, but because they are friends they have hesitated about telling you for fear of offending you.

Often it is a good thing to get a "dressing out" from someone who does not mince words in presenting your imperfections.

That is one of the reasons why large families are good for all concerned.

It takes the one who knows you best to show you up.

But that enemy of yours has watched you closely because you are a source of annoyance and hence you are likely to get some wholesome truths from the enemy.

An enemy who comes right out flat-footed and tells you your weak spots is often more valuable to you than your friends.

You miss something in character building if you have not a few enemies at least to tell you of your faults.

You miss also strong friendships, for strong friendships and strong character are bound to make some enemies.
